Panic on Exchanges in United States Described as Worst Since World War Scare of 1914; New York Sees Substantial Rally Before Day Closes, But Gains Do Not Wipe Out Losses.

New York, Oct. 24.—The most terrifying panic of selling since the World War scare of 1914 dealt a crushing blow to the leading stock markets throughout the United States to-day and was checked only by prompt reassurances from leading bankers of the country. All records for wild and frenzied trading were broken, and while prices rallied substantially during the afternoon from the lowest levels of the day, closing prices of most of the leading stocks disclosed severe declines.

On the New York Stock Exchange it was estimated 12,850,000 shares had been traded and when the closing gong sounded at 3 o'clock, the ticker tape then was more than two and a half hours behind in printing quotations. The final transactions were not expected to be recorded until after 6 p.m. The previous record turnover was 8,246,740 shares, recorded March 23, United States Steel, traditionally (Concluded on Page 19)

Great Total

New York, Oct. 24.—The stocks of six leading corporations at their low levels of to-day on the New York Stock Exchange showed losses in total market value since yesterday of nearly $1,000,000.

The market value of the total common stock of General Motors showed a loss of approximately $358,000,000; that of American Telephone and Telegraph Company $273,000,000; Radio Corporation of America $240,000,000; United States Steel Corporation $78,000,000; Standard Oil Company of New Jersey $68,000,000 and General Electric Company $64,000,000.

Wheat Markets In Chaos As Sellers
Join In Scramble

Winnipeg, Oct. 24.—For a disastrous fifteen minutes to-day the wheat market here accepted the worst beating on record at the Winnipeg Exchange. Under a howling flood of selling orders, values sank helplessly to almost fifteen cents below the previous close. Then out of the depths the market rallied bravely to cut the losses to only 5 1/2 cents to 6 1/2 cents for the day.

From 11:15 a.m. until 11:30, chaos held the reins in the market and rode roughshod over a huddled, shouting mass of disappointed wheat holders. Within a condensed period of three minutes quotations fell prostrate, dropping ten cents. Breathless traders fought fruitfully to execute orders in a market that could not be affected.

Small holders of wheat stood speechless as they saw their tiny fortunes dissolved in the market's change. Helpless to barter off their holdings within margin and unable to cover on the wide break, they could do nothing but watch the falling quotations.

The 15-cent fall wiped out a countless number of the smaller speculators, but the recovery proved some satisfaction to the larger dealers.

Italy Soon May Send

Ottawa, Oct. 24.—The appointment of an Italian Minister to Canada, forecast in cable dispatches received here yesterday, was followed to-day by a report current locally that Agostino Ferrante di Ruffano, Italian consul-general here, would soon be transferred to Philadelphia and that he would be succeeded in Ottawa by Count Delfino Rogeri di Villanova, counselor and senior assistant at the Italian Embassy in London.

The dispatches forecasting that Italy would ultimately follow the example of the United States, France and Japan by appointing a Minister Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 24.—One man is known to have died early to-day when a fire and explosions wrecked the laboratory of the Consolidated Film Industries Inc. here. He was found in the ruins after the fire had been subdued, and died in an ambulance en route to a hospital.

The body was identified as that of Al Long, a film polishing machine worker. The first of the hour explosions was believed to have occurred at the polishing machine.

C. M. Lockwood, a motion picture company executive, who was working in a film projection room when the first explosion rocked the building, said Long was the only one of fifteen men and thirty-five women known by him to have been in the laboratory at the time, to be unaccounted for among the survivors.

The laboratory was operated by the Eastman Kodak Company for the benefit of all motion picture producing companies, and practically every company in Hollywood had films stored or in process of development in the building, the total being several million feet.

GERMANY ALSO MENTIONED
The Department of External Affairs would make no official comment with regard to either report. However, there is a general impression that Canada's diplomatic services abroad will be extended. Germany and Italy appear as likely countries with which Canada next will exchange Ministers.

Marquis Ferrante, in an interview yesterday, said he knew nothing of reports emanating from London that his Government would appoint a Minister to Canada. "It is quite possible," he is quoted having said, "but it may not be for some time yet."

No Broker
Collapses In Big Panic

New York, Oct. 24.—Thomas W. Lamont emerged from the bankers' conference held at the offices of J. P. Morgan and Company early this afternoon and announced that in so far as the bankers had been able to learn, no financial houses were in difficulties.

So far as we can find there are no houses in financial difficulty, and reports from brokerage houses indicate the margin position is satisfactory," said Mr. Lamont.

The meeting of leading bankers was hastily convened shortly after noon, those attending including Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City Bank, and A. H. Wiggin, chairman of the Chase National Bank.

New York, Oct. 24.—A meeting of partners of a number of leading New York Stock Exchange commission houses with extensive wire systems to other cities was called for late this afternoon by Col. J. W. Prentice, senior resident partner of Hornblower and Weeks, to consider the general stock situation, following the wild scenes on the Exchange to-day.

In stating the meeting would be held, Col. Prentice added it was the opinion of his house the worst of the market break had been seen, and that the market appeared to be in a position for a substantial rally.

U. S. Cotton
Prices Fall

New York, Oct. 24.—Cotton prices broke approximately $2.50 a bale from an early advance to-day in sympathy with the sharp decline in New York stocks. Just before noon values traded around fifty points below the day's high and forty points under yesterday's close.

U. S. Stocks

In London

London, Oct. 24.—Sharp falls, ranging from three to five points, occurred in the "transatlantic" issues on the London Stock Exchange to-day following yesterday's collapse on Wall Street.

The movement of money from the United States to London as a result of the higher rate is causing an improvement in the exchange. New York cable transfers touched $4.83, the highest point in some years.

Auto Club Says Fake Concerns Trying to Operate in British Columbia

Vancouver, Oct. 24.—Motor service organizations of the "fly-by-night" or "fake" variety are attempting to operate in British Columbia, according to information obtained by investigators of the Automobile Club of British Columbia, who have placed the matter in the hands of the superintendent of insurance at Victoria.

A warning to car owners was issued to-day by the superintendent as follows:

"Automobile owners who are canvassed to buy or subscribe for membership privileges in any kind of motorists' 'service' organization are cautioned to be circumspect of such bodies. The closest scrutiny should be given to any agreement which has to be signed and to the representations made by the agents of such concerns. Improving Conditions Boost Receipts All Along the Line

Victoria City collected $1,332,031, or 89.75 per cent of its general tax and frontages levies up to October 14, it was stated to-day by D. A. Macdonald, city comptroller.

In addition, $203,488 in arrears of taxation was collected up to October 16. General receipts, apart from taxation, are also well up, with two and a half months of the year to go.

Tax arrears payments, excluding the consolidated plans of ten and fifteen-year extension, will yield another $13,000, it is anticipated, and general rates a further $25,000, at a minimum.

TAX LEVY OF $1,716,309

The tax levy for the year was $1,716,309, exclusive of general receipts. Up to October 14, $1,532,031 of this had been received. Tax arrears payments were estimated at $218,900, and up to October 16, $203,488 had been received (Concluded on Page 2)

Shot Fired as Humbert Lays Wreath on Unknown Soldier's Tomb

Brussels, Oct. 24.—A shot was fired at Crown Prince Humbert of Italy to-day as he laid a wreath on the tomb of Belgium's Unknown Soldier. The prince, uninjured, ignored the incident, but police arrested the would-be assassin immediately. Infuriated, the crowd stormed the police station, demanding the man be lynched.

The prince had just been welcomed at the tomb by Count de Brocqueville, Minister of National Defence, and was shaking hands with other notables when the attack was made.

Just as the man fired the shot, a motorcyclist who had preceded the prince to the tomb threw himself forward and knocked his hand down, deflecting the shot, which went into the ground.

The crowd did not appear at first to realize what was happening. The motorcyclist's engine had barely ceased popping when the shot rang out.

SECOND SHOT PREVENTED
Despite the strict precautions taken by the police to prevent any unpleasant incident at the ceremony, Dross succeeded in making his way to a point near the prince's car, firing the shot when he was about fifteen yards away. As he was preparing to fire a (Concluded on Page 3)

Straight, superintendent, this morning announced that Mr. MacKenzie's bird No. 3 had laid 305 eggs in the course of the fifty-one weeks the test was in progress, and had been awarded 349.3 points, winning both competitions.

Robbins and Boies, of Parkville, won the competition for pens, the ten birds from their Dashedwood Poultry Ranch earning 2,793.3 points for 2,407 eggs laid.

Second place was taken by the Westwood Poultry Farm of Duncan, with 2,312 eggs and 2,709.3 points.

R. B. Jeffrey of Langford won third place with 2,662.3 points, awarded for 2,355 eggs, the eggs laid being more than those credited to the second place pen.

Aviation Experts Say There Is Little Likelihood of Diteman Being Heard Of

London, Oct. 24.—Hope was almost abandoned this afternoon for the safety of Urban F. Diteman, Montana cattleman, who left Newfoundland Tuesday aboard a small plane on an attempted transatlantic flight to London, England.

Unless Diteman has been picked up by a ship without wireless, London aviation experts consider there is only the slenderest of chances for his rescue. He was more than twenty-four hours overdue in London and no news had been received from any quarter.

NO WRECKAGE FOUND
St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 24.—The report from Harbor Grace that the steamship Kyle had picked up a message reporting the finding of aeroplane wreckage by an unidentified ship was stated by the Newfoundland railway management to be without foundation.

The management has had no message from the Kyle, which is off the northern coast of Newfoundland. It is believed the rumor originated from the Steamship Cynthia's message last night that no sign of the plane had been seen. The message was in code and the report spread that Urban F. Diteman, missing on his flight to London, had been found.

CANADIAN COLLEGES ADD
PRESTIGE IN SPORTS INQUIRY

New York, Oct. 24.—The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, making public the elaborate results of its searching and in some respects sensational investigation of college athletics, particularly football, in the United States and Canada, pays a great tribute to Canadian universities.

The Foundation's report, which may become famous as "Bulletin No. 23," in its revelations and effects runs the gamut of methods, practices and conditions, but focuses principally upon what the investigators characterize as "the deepest shadow, that darkens American college and school athletics, the widespread practice of recruiting and subsidizing athletes."

An interesting feature of the report is that in only twenty-eight of the institutions studied was there no evidence found that athletes were subsidized, and of that number seven of the universities are Canadian. These are listed as follows: Dalhousie, Laval, McGill, Ottawa, Queen's, Saskatchewan, Toronto. (Concluded on Page 2)

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 24.—Captain H. C. Hubbard of the United States Lighthouse service here this afternoon reported a wireless message he had received said several bodies with life-preservers bearing the name "C. F. Milwaukee" and the pilothouse of the ferry of that name had been picked up by a boat sixteen miles off Kenosha.

A watch found on one of the bodies had stopped at 9:35, indicating the Grand Trunk (Canadian National) car ferry Milwaukee, with fifty-two men aboard, went down about that time Tuesday night, about seven hours after it had left here in the face of a gale from Grand Haven, Mich.

FOUND NEAR KENOSHA
Ludington, Mich., Oct. 24.—The Pere Marquette Railway wireless station here to-day picked up a message from the steel motorship Chemist, stating two bodies wearing lifebelts bearing the name "Milwaukee" had been found in Lake Michigan off Kenosha, Wisconsin.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 24.—Hope that the car ferry Milwaukee of the Grand Trunk fleet, with fifty-two persons aboard, had weathered the forty-eight-hour storm on Lake Michigan faded to-day with a report that wreckage from a vessel had been picked up ten miles off Wind Point, which is about four miles north of Racine, Wisconsin.

Capt. Ray Hayward, Detroit, master of the steamer Colonel, told Grand Trunk officials here he had sighted empty lifeboats, mattresses and upper parts of a white cabin floating in the lake off Wind Point. The upper part of the Milwaukee was painted white.

Some of the wreckage was picked up by the Colonel, but none of it carried any marks to make identification certain, Captain Hayward said.

CARRIED TWENTY-SEVEN CARS
The Milwaukee steamed out of the Kintickine River into Lake Michigan at 3 p.m. Tuesday en route to Grand Haven, Mich., carrying twenty-seven cars. Not until to-day did Grand Trunk officials here admit they were apprehensive regarding the fate of the Milwaukee. The ship was commanded by Captain Robert McKay of Grand Haven, Mich., a veteran skipper.

Captain Hayward told Captain Charles E. McLaren, marine superintendent here, that in his opinion the wreckage was without doubt from the Milwaukee. (Concluded on Page 2)

LOGGERS TOLD CHANGES COMING

1,000 Timber Men Gathered at Seattle to Hear President's Predictions

Seattle, Oct. 24.—Important changes in logging operations and methods of lumber manufacture were forecast by R. W. Vinnege, president of the Pacific Logging Congress, in his opening address yesterday to about 1,000 timber men gathered here for a three-day convention.

Mr. Vinnege predicted the fast eastern or Swedish type of saw-mill would replace the present Pacific type in five years to meet the change in stumpage. In a short time steam powered logging machinery would no longer be seen in the woods, and all operators would use internal combustion logging engines, he declared. Smaller and faster machinery would be adopted.

A Pacific Northwest log scaling bureau would soon be established, Mr. Vinnege told the assembled loggers.

HEMLOCK MARKET

He forecast the beginning of a campaign to popularize hemlock, declaring that product was now suffering from prejudice, but had some relief from pulp mill demand.

Low prices for lumber and logs were blamed upon an "inferiority complex" in the sales policy of the industry by the president of the Timber Men's Association. He scored what he termed a "hesitant and apologetic" attitude, and "acceptance of offered prices. Because of market conditions he reported that loggers and mills had curtailed production "unbelievably."

The analysis of the cost of the Saanich schools showed that salaries cost $84,956 and high school fees require $30,300.

FIGHT ON BILL IN NEW ZEALAND

Wellington, N.Z., Oct. 24.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).—The Parliament of New Zealand has been holding a lengthy sitting with only brief interruption for meals, because a fierce fight is being waged by the opposition against the Government's land income tax amendment. The fight continues unabated, led by former Prime Minister J. O. Coates, who

GREAT RIVER WORKS IN U.S. HOOVER'S THEME

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 24.—Gone but not forgotten glories of "Old Man River" are being modernized and restored under the republic's programme of improvement of its internal waterways. President Hoover said last night, speaking to the nation over the radio from Memorial Auditorium here.

He outlines an ambitious programme of waterway development, inland, coastal and harbor, estimating it would increase the annual appropriations for waterway work from $85,000,000 to $95,000,000, with an additional $10,000,000 when the St. Lawrence improvement is under way.

Those who love old romantic "steamboat" days of Mark Twain "may now again find rest and food for the soul" in travel on the mighty current of harnessed streams, the President said to his audience in the Louisville Memorial Auditorium.

Interpreting his speech with phrases familiar to the river men, the President set forth his policy as calling for the completion of the Mississippi system in five years and the modernization of every part of the waterways which will show economic justification in aid of the farmers and industry. "The address was delivered at the end of a voyage down the Ohio from Cincinnati made as part of the celebration in the Ohio Valley of the completion of improvement of the river into a modern waterway.

"This transformation will not revive the romantic steamboat" days of Mark Twain," he said, "but it will move more goods."

MOTORIST NEEDS CLOSE SCRUTINY WHEN CANVASSED

Superintendent of Insurance Warns Against Some "Service" Organizations

The Superintendent of Insurance at Victoria asks The Times to publish a warning to automobile owners who are canvassed to buy or subscribe for membership privileges in motorist "service" organizations. He says closest scrutiny should be given to any agreement which has to be signed and to the representations made by the agents of such concerns. Inquiry should be made as to what benefits and rights will accrue, and if insurance is offered as an inducement. Any person contemplating membership should ascertain exactly what the policy will cover. He points out that apparently there are many people who still do not realize that one cannot get anything for nothing and that what seems cheap is often the dearest in the end.

Prospective subscribers should satisfy themselves by inquiry whether the organization has complied with Provincial laws and that if insurance features are offered the solicitors are duly licensed.

In various parts of the United States much trouble has been caused by some "service" organizations, and it is feared by the Superintendent of Insurance that similar methods will be employed in British Columbia.

MANY TROPHIES PRESENTED AT VICTORIA WEST

Big Audience at Presentation Ceremonies at School Yesterday Afternoon

Cadet Corps Win High Honors; Medal For Bravery Presented

Enthusiasm marked the ceremonies in connection with the distribution of an unusual number of trophies won by the Victoria West School in the flag and flower decked auditorium yesterday afternoon. There was a very large attendance of parents and friends. Principal H. S. Hurn was chairman and with him on the platform were Brigadier Sutherland Brown, Col. Parsons, Major Murray, Capt. Macpherson, Provincial cadet officer, Col. Lorne Ross, Capt. Ian Sinclair, School Trustees J. L. Berwick and Alex. Peden, Beaumont Hogg, representatives of the I.O.D.E., Mrs. Curtis Sampson, Mrs. Hebban Gillespie and Mrs. J. Gordon Smith.

Mr. Hurn briefly explained the cadet movement as it existed in all the schools of the province. A yearly test was conducted by the district cadet officer in all the schools and marks carefully allotted to each phase and each subject. Last year the Victoria West School Cadets attained higher marks in all subjects than any corps in any school in the Province. This entitled them to the Vancouver Municipal Chapter I.O.D.E. Cup, and Mrs. Curtis Sampson, regent of the I.O.D.E., presented the trophy, congratulating the boys.

Cadet Captain Jack O'Neill received the cup on behalf of his corps, the boys making a fine appearance in their smart uniforms as they stood at attention.

Col. Lorne Ross made the presentation of the British Campaigners Shield, and told the boys of the engagements in which some of the veterans of this association had played an honorable part.

Cadet Llewellyn Stevens received the shield.

A charming interlude was a school chorus, "The Shepherdess and the Cuckoo," sweetly sung under the leadership of Miss Smith, with Miss McKay at the piano.

NICHOL SHIELD

The Hon. Walter C. Nichol Shield for the highest efficiency in any cadet corps of the city was presented by Brigadier Sutherland Brown. Cadet Laird received the shield.

Capt. Ian Sinclair made the presentation of a cup for first aid, and a cup for proficiency in shooting. These were the gifts of Cadet Master R. T. Kipling, and in presenting them to Hugh Hughes and Llewellyn Stevens, Capt. Sinclair said: "Keep on keeping on."

WHO NEEDS PROOF OF SANTA'S EXISTENCE

announced the Monday after the contest closes.

Remember, write your letter yourself, and tell just why you know there is a Santa Claus. There are just lots of reasons. You have heard about Santa all your life. Perhaps you've seen him. Write it to the Santa Claus Editor.

Here are two letters from yesterday's mail. Here is one from the youngest entrant:

Editor:—I am just a little boy. I am just turned five years old, so my mama is helping me to write my letter to tell you why I know there is a Santa Claus. I saw him in Victoria last year, and he lives at the North Pole; he comes as far as he can with his reindeer and sleigh, then he takes an aeroplane to Victoria. We good boys and girls don't see Santa Claus leave our toys for we are fast asleep. I have cut out a Santa Claus to show you what he looks like. I hope to see one like him in town this year.

Here's another:

Dear Editor:—Sure I know there is a Santa Claus, cause if there wasn't who would bring me and Jimmy and Jack's stockings and steamships on Christmas?

Jacky is four years old and Jimmy is six years old, and I am eight years old. We just wish for candy and lots of things, and he comes and brings them to us when he is asleep.

Santa Claus goes all over, cause he used to bring us toys and candy in Washington, and now he comes down a wagon and a fire engine and a garage and some cars, and Jimmy said he saw his boot.

You just wish for something and see if he don't bring it to you.

CANADIAN COLLEGES ADD PRESTIGE IN SPORTS INQUIRY

Drawing attention to football scouting, the report points out this practice is considered "unbecomingly" by the Canadian institutions of learning.

Those who tempt young men to barter their honesty for the supposed advantage of a college course dishonestly achieved are "the Fagins of American sport and American higher education," declares the report.

RESPONSIBILITY PLACED

Placing the responsibility squarely upon the shoulders of college executives, the authors find that in the dark there are many lighter patches, and that "the university or college that, under capable leadership, makes its collective mind to cast out these practices, can do so."

"In Canada, a far larger proportion of university athletes come from the more prosperous classes and are maintained entirely by their families," reports say. "The needy athlete is comparatively rare, and even when he exists, does not expect special consideration. In addition, Canadian university sportsmanship is sufficiently strong to prevent recruiting."

ORGANIZE TO START CANVASS FOR CYCLISTS

of the committee, called upon M. C. Robinson, superintendent of the western division of the Canadian Institute for the Blind, to speak on the work of the institution.

Mr. Robinson sketched the activities of the organization, showing the different fields of endeavor it was opening for the blind of British Columbia. He noted the work of the institution in Vancouver, where only three men of twenty-five employed had their sight. The speaker also touched upon the work being done in the women's basket making section.

Mr. Robinson stressed the fact that these work shops not only gave the employees a method of making their own living and preventing them from falling into idleness, but gave them some employment that kept them from brooding over their disabilities.

SIGHT SAVING

The library and home teaching sections of the institute were touched upon, the speaker saying that special efforts were being made to give the sightless the benefits of reading by the Braille system. Recently, he continued, special work had been started in sight-saving classes, where those people with weak eyes were taught to conserve their sight by experts who had studied the problem.

Other relief departments were in operation, Mr. Robinson said. Of particular value was that section of the institute that procured for blind people, radios at cost price and other materials of use to them.

The placement service, whereby employment was found for the sightless was dealt with at some length. This was of great value, it was stated, by obtaining work many sightless were able to preserve their self-respect and were not required to depend upon charity for their existence.

LIGHT OF HOPE

Dr. MacDonald, general field secretary of the Canadian Institute, reiterated the remarks of Mr. Robinson, and stated that the proposed canvass appeared to him as the dawning of a better day for the blind. Similar collections had been very successful in other parts of Canada, he said.

Since this was the first time the institute had appealed to the public for aid, he hoped that it would be generously supported. With the additional money raised by the canvass better buildings would be erected in Vancouver, he stated.

In conclusion Dr. MacDonald said there were almost 500 blind people in the province looking to the institute for aid. Hence, he added, the committee earnestly hoped its objective would be attained.

On behalf of the ex-service organizations and Armistice Day committee, Gen. Sir Percy Lake addressed the gathering. He noted that drive and the canvass for the blind were being conducted almost simultaneously, but expressed the hope that the citizens of Victoria would give both whole-hearted support. He expressed the desire of his organization to work in co-operation with that of the other.

A general discussion led by F. E. Whinn was then held on subjects relating to the canvass.

Announcement was made that J. S. H. Matoon had loaned the committee a room in the Vancouver Island Coach Line depot.

The appointment of R. P. Taylor as treasurer of the committee was endorsed during the meeting.

BRITISH PLAN GREAT INCREASE IN AUTO OUTPUT

Government and Big Financial Interests Support Movement

London, Oct. 24.—A sweeping plan to push forward Britain's motor car industry in connection with the Government's schemes for relief of unemployment and to capture the automobile markets of the world is said to be under way.

According to stories featured on the front pages of The London Daily News and The London Express to-day, the plan is largely aimed at United States competition.

The scheme carries the motor car war between Britain and the United States an important step forward. The Express said. It was stated the Government, great financial interests and the entire motor trade in Great Britain were engaged in evolving the plan.

$5,000,000 INVESTED

The Prudential Insurance Company, regarded as one of the richest corporations in the world, was said to have undertaken to back the scheme and to have invested already £1,000,000 in the firm of Rootes Limited, the largest automobile distributing agency in Great Britain. The newspapers indicated the scheme was a sequel to the efforts of the Right Hon. J. H. Thomas, Minister of Employment. He recently conferred with British leaders in the industry and was reported to have told them this country was now producing cars better than the United States makes and that with Government and financial backing they could capture the Empire motor markets within five years. At the same time, he held the automobile trade offered the quickest and surest way to reduce British unemployment.

Interesting Old Document Read For L'Alliance

The fortnightly meeting of L'Alliance Francaise was held yesterday afternoon at 1507 Laurel Lane, with large attendance of members, Madame Halet, presiding, announced the forthcoming lecture by Mlle. Adrienne d'Amboise about December 14, and the next fortnightly meeting of L'Alliance for Wednesday, November 13.

At the request of Mrs. Hamilton Smith, secretary-treasurer, at the end of her report, an old document was read by Madame Sanderson-Mongin, giving the history and origin of the name Quebec. Written in old French, this story, of the days of Champlain, was found of deep interest. Madame continued her discourse with the history of the Marcellaise, written by Rouget de Lisle, at the request of the mayor of Strasbourg, and told how, though written by a Royalist, the song had become the inspiration of the republicans and had doubtless given great impetus to the revolutionary forces in 1792, inspiring the poorly armed peasants to victory.

An animated discussion upon the lecture of Comte Jean de Suzannet on Saturday evening was greatly enjoyed by the members and served to show the many points of interest from which the lecturer had dealt with Syria, and the appreciation of the picturesque slides in illustration. An appeal for help in the selling of poppies for Armistice Day was read and members were asked to volunteer and to send their names to headquarters. Mrs. Brian Tyrwhitt Drake led in the singing of the Marcellaise with Mrs. Stevens at the piano.

WRECKAGE TELLS OF DISASTER IN LAKE MICHIGAN

Crews from the coastguard stations at South Haven, St. Joseph, Grand Haven, Muskegon, Ludington and Manistee, Michigan, starting yesterday, made a futile search for the Milwaukee.

The Milwaukee was a Canadian National Railway ferry. That part of the Canadian National system which lies in Michigan, Indiana and Illinois is known as the Grand Trunk, Grand Haven and Chicago being the termini of the line which crosses from Ontario to Sarnia.

IDENTIFIED BY LIFEBELTS
 Chicago, Oct. 24.—Fifty-two lives were believed today to have paid the first claim of the angry Great Lakes after two days of storm. Floating bodies, reported recovered near Kenosha, Wis., indicated the railway car ferry Milwaukee had shattered on rocks across Lake Michigan. The motorship Chemist radioed that the bodies were lifebelts marked "Milwaukee."

FREIGHTER SAFE

To-day brought word that the long overdue freighter Donaldson was safe at Superior, Wis. It had put in at a sheltered point while the storm was at its height.

The freighter carried thirty men and grave fears had been entertained for its safety. The William B. Pilkey was still aground on a reef near Detroit, Mich., with thirty-two men aboard.

The crew of the Ford Company's barge Lake Frugality, was reported safe and the barge high and dry near Point au Sable. Rumors the barge had foundered here were denied.

LOSSES COUNTED

Toronto, Oct. 24.—Storm-scarred and wind-whipped, the Great Lakes region to-day counted its losses in men and money after the season's worst storm. Property losses will run into the millions of dollars and at least 100 lives were held in the balance until reports come from vessels missing on the lakes.

Fifty-two were aboard the C.N.R. car ferry Milwaukee, which left Milwaukee at 2 p.m. Tuesday to cross Lake Michigan and which is believed lost. Fears were felt for the steamer William B. Pilkey and its crew of thirty-two men, aground in Lake Huron on a reef east of Detroit, Mich. The steel sandcarrier C. A. Cadwell was aground in Lake Erie near Leam-

THE DINNER OF THE V.C.'S

THE PUBLIC WILL APPROVE THE Provincial Government's decision to contribute to the cost of the journey to London of those British Columbia V.C.'s who find it convenient to attend the dinner to which the Prince of Wales has invited them. It is gratifying to note that both railway companies, and the various shipping companies operating on the Atlantic, have signified their intention of waiving their transportation charges.

This gathering should prove a notable one, not only because of its unique character, but also because it will afford these men who are entitled to wear this most coveted of all insignia an opportunity of discussing, in an informal manner, with the heir to the throne certain problems in which they are particularly interested, as well as other matters of concern to ex-servicemen generally. It is to be hoped that the Canadian contingent will be as representative as possible.

STOCKS STILL SLIDE

ALTHOUGH EVERYONE'S SLEEP MAY not be disturbed by the fluctuations of the stock market, not a few in this and other Canadian communities are more than ordinarily perturbed at the behavior of many stocks which were regarded as solid as a rock.

Opinions obviously differ as to what the immediate future holds. Professor Irving T. Fisher, head of the department of economics at Yale University, said on Monday that the bearish movement had reached bottom, and that while the market might be "sagged" for the next few weeks, it would not be long before a definite upward trend would set in.

No doubt in stock exchange parlance "ragged" is a somewhat elastic term, and events since Monday obviously suggest that the market has been extremely "ragged."

Roger W. Babson, market economist and financial expert, whose predictions seldom go wrong, does not agree with Professor Fisher. He admits that there should be an upward rebound from present quotations, "but this rebound will probably be only temporary, and the next downward movement will reach new lows."

It will be recalled that Mr. Babson forecast on September 5 that there would be a sixty-point drop in the Dow-Jones averages. This has come about, and Mr. Babson said to the United Press yesterday: "I am sorry to have it come so quickly, because I hate to see people hurt in the process. I believe that many who have been so caught could recoup some of the losses by now buying good bonds."

As we pointed out the other day, the Babson organization has access to many sources of information which are denied to most. Upon this information, sound economic principle and good business, Mr. Babson bases his predictions. Since he is seldom wide of the mark, investors might do worse than note his observations from time to time.

THE DAIRY INDUSTRY

THE FIRST SIX MONTHS OF 1929 recorded an appreciable and very satisfactory increase in dairy production and value in Canada. While feed conditions throughout the country will doubtless retard the progress of this advance in the latter half of the year, such interruption will be merely temporary and the general expansion of the industry continue. Taking the broad view, authorities state that the Canadian dairy industry was never in better position, for the activity is too firmly established to be basically affected by troubles periodically besetting it. A general idea of the present Canadian situation in dairying may be gathered from the statistics of 1928, which, while revealing the Dominion in a strong position in the industry, at the same time throw into relief the opportunity still existing for expansion.

In 1928 there were 2,885 dairy factories in operation, comprising 1,265 creameries, 1,303 cheese factories, 288 combined butter and cheese factories, and twenty-nine condenser. The total value of all the products of these establishments was $144,543,740, an increase over the previous year of $8,632,810, or six per cent. This was the highest figure reached since the period of peak prices immediately after the war, the steady rate of progress being unbroken since that time. The probability is that a further increment will be recorded in the present year.

Creamery butter made in Canada in 1928 amounted to 170,352,955 pounds, with a value of $65,540,177, the average price per pound being 38.47 cents. In only one year back to 1900, viz., 1927, has the value of butter production exceeded that of 1928, but the quantity was exceeded in three previous years, 1924, 1926 and 1927. Ontario was the leading producer with 63,733,187 pounds, worth $24,924,004, followed by Quebec with 54,904,046 pounds, worth $20,832,898. Ranking third as a butter producer was Alberta with 14,375,636 pounds, worth $5,374,456, closely followed by Manitoba with 13,782,167 pounds, worth $5,139,387. Saskatchewan followed with 11,310,496 pounds, worth $4,370,623. Nova Scotia led the Maritimes with an output of 4,479,276 pounds, worth $1,766,686. British Columbia ranked next with 3,691,468 pounds, worth $1,556,900. New Brunswick produced 2,039,841 pounds, worth $790,728, and Prince Edward Island 2,036,838 pounds, worth $784,277. There were declines in the volume of butter production in all provinces with the exception of Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick.

The total output of factory cheese in 1928 was 143,689,794 pounds, valued at $30,313,879, the average price per pound being 21.10 cents, an increase in quantity of 5,532,886 pounds, and in value of $4,791,731, over the previous year. Ontario was outstandingly the principal producer with 95,524,155 pounds, worth $20,219,834, or nearly seventy per cent. of the Dominion output. Quebec followed with almost half Ontario production, 44,326,885 pounds, worth $9,265,643. Prince Edward Island was the next heaviest producer with 1,710,943 pounds, worth $360,748. New Brunswick produced 697,811 pounds, worth $149,798, and Nova Scotia 25,230 pounds, valued at $5,298. Western Canada altogether accounted for 1,404,770 pounds, worth $312,558, Alberta accounting for more than half of this. Quebec was the only province to record an increase in cheese output in the year, this amounting to about 7,000,000 pounds, more than sufficient to offset decreases in all other provinces.

The total value of condensed, evaporated, and powdered milk produced was $10,226,415, an increase of $40,103 over the previous year. There was a large increase in the value of miscellaneous products of dairy factories, such as whey, butter, ice cream, and milk and cream sold for consumption as such, this amounting to $38,463,269, as compared with $34,492,484 in 1927. Ice cream made amounted to 6,170,263 gallons, valued at $8,279,900.

Imports of dairy products into Canada during the year increased in value from $4,589,269 to $6,580,915, the increment being very largely attributable to greater imports of butter, which rose from 11,208,819 pounds, worth $3,892,640, to 16,801,656 pounds, worth $5,937,170. This has come about through increasing Canadian butter consumption, this now amounting to 29.31 pounds per capita per annum, the highest in the world, and the diversion of milk and cream from butter manufacture for other utilization. It means that the purchasing capacity of the Canadian people is greater now than it has been at any time in the history of the country. There also is evidence in the record of these importations of the scope which exists for the expansion of the dairy industry in Canada.

NOTHING BUT GENERALITIES

IN A DISCUSSION OF EMPIRE TRADE in Toronto the other day Hon. R. B. Bennett said he wanted to know why there should not be an economic unit of the British Commonwealth. "We have within this great Empire," he proceeded, "one-quarter of the world's people and one-quarter of its area. We produce everything known to mankind. Why should we not devise some method by which the necessities of each shall be met by the abundant resources of the other within the Empire?"

It would be interesting to know just what Mr. Bennett would do to increase trade within the Empire, what foundation he would lay for an imperial economic unit, if he were the Prime Minister of this country. Neither his attitude nor the attitude of his party to this question in the past has given us any inkling at all. It has been a negative one in a general way and positively hostile in a number of cases. On no occasion during his recent tour of the west did the opposition leader go into any detail in this regard. In the light of the party's record, of course, he apparently considered it wiser to confine himself to generalities.

Mr. Bennett may talk about inter-Empire trade until the crack of doom; but he knows that he has no intention of supporting policies which at once would stimulate that trade. He is opposed to the reduction of the duties which goods from Great Britain have to pay to enter this country. His party is committed to the policy of no preference for British goods until there is a British preference for Canadian goods. In return for the concession which Canada gives to Britain—a concession which enables us to pile up a trade balance in our favor of two dollars to one—he would ask the British Government to tax the already over-burdened British taxpayer still more. For a preference on Canadian goods entering Britain would mean a more costly British breakfast table.

It is the same with the treaties which the present Government has negotiated with Australia, New Zealand, and the British West Indies. Although we are getting a very great advantage from the operation of these trading agreements, the party which Mr. Bennett leads has attacked them upon every occasion which has presented itself. Hence, until Mr. Bennett comes down to cases, the public of this country will take all references supposed to imply that he is in favor of greater trade within the Empire with a large grain of salt.

PREFERRED IMMIGRANTS

The Ottawa Journal

There is to be a further reduction of twenty-five per cent in the number of immigrants permitted into Canada from non-preferred countries of Europe. That is as it should be. Canada, at the present time, can only absorb a limited number of settlers, and unless all our talk about giving a preference to Britain means nothing, there is no reason why we should not reserve whatever we have to offer in the way of jobs and settlement opportunities for people who come from Britain. This is not a matter of becoming hysterical about the perils of Canada being overrun by foreigners. It is simply a question of a member of the British family of nations looking to the interests of its own family first.

Loose Ends

"Racket" turns out to be old and respectable after all—and more sensible than many of its contemporary vulgarisms—which will amaze the historian—some eminent Victorian slush is revived—and Lincoln's hespecking revealed.

(By H. B. W.)

WHENEVER a new slang phrase flashes across the world-like a comet you should be skeptical and examine its ancestry. Probably you will find that it is not new at all and has merely been revived to serve the peculiar purposes of our civilization. A notable case in point is the much-used word "racket," which has been applied of late months to almost every human activity. The gangsters of Chicago, being specialists in crime, adopted it to describe their operations, but since then everyone's business, no matter how respectable, has become a racket, and the inferred disreputable which the word used to carry has largely disappeared. Everywhere "racket" is enjoying extraordinary popularity because it is supposed to be new and smart. Actually, as investigators have just discovered, it is as old as English itself.

IT WAS in the days when the dialects of England were emerging into a language that "racket" first appeared. Chaucer refers to "raket" as the name of an unknown game of dice, while there was also at that time a Gaelic word, "racaid," with a somewhat similar meaning. Shakespeare used "racket" in the sense of disorderly conduct, but by Macaulay's time the word had become innocuous enough for him to record that he had "been racketing lately, having dined twice with Rogers and once with Grant." In 1812 "racket" was generally used to describe "some particular kinds of fraud and robbery." Apparently the only new coinage given to us by the Chicago underworld is the word "racketeer," but even this is now only in spelling, for in 1861 a "racy, noisy person" was described as a "racketeer." Apparently literature is not under the debt to the Chicago underworld which it had anticipated.

ANYWAY, the slang and wisecracks of to-day are forgotten tomorrow or, if remembered, seem incredibly foolish. The more popular they are for the moment, the sooner do they disappear. Not long ago it was "Tell it to Sweeney" or "Tell it to the Marines." Now a more enlightened generation uses those choice terms "apple-sauce" or "You're all wet," "baloney" or "banana oil." Even the record-breaking "making-whoopee" is rapidly losing cast, thank heaven, and that more intelligent exclamation "and how" also has been dropped entirely by really smart people. Just now in the centres of culture like Broadway a favorite expression is "What! No Spinsch!" this having been stolen from a popular comedy, apparently as a variation of the old popular, "Yes, We Have No Bananas!" which also had an equal amount of sense.

ALL THESE brilliant phrases fade out of our fast-moving life so quickly that the historian of our civilization a hundred years hence will be sorely puzzled when he studies the current writings. Probably he will think that when a person is "all wet" he has fallen into the harbor and will wonder why he is so cheerful about it. When he reads of someone asserting that another "got a break" he will naturally suppose that he is mended in the nearest hospital. If he is an American he will be quite sure that a "wet smack," a popular vulgarism of the day, refers to a Gloucester fishing boat, and this will be somewhat confusing to him.

MODERN BIOGRAPHY grows more encouraging every day. Its latest revelations of great lives are calculated to cheer the most depressed among us and to make the most depressed feel that perhaps they are no worse than some of the more eminent members of our race. Among the most encouraging of these works is a newly-published book of Diarrell's letters to Lady Chesterfield and Lady Bradford. These remarkable epistles were written after 1872, when Diarrell had been left an aged widower, and you would think, had reached the age of discretion, which apparently he never did; and that is the encouraging aspect of the case to many of us who are in the same plight.

WELL, to the Countess of Bradford—a lady depicted by current portraiture as having a mass of jet black curls hanging down to her shoulders like cornucopia, a hoop skirt, a fuzzy little dog in her lap and a blank mid-Victorian look on her face—to this lady the newly-bereaved prime minister proceeded immediately to indict 1,100 letters of sentimentality which frequently became plain slush. But as the lady was encumbered by a husband, her illustrious beau added 500 letters, also affectionate, to her elder sister, Lady Chesterfield. The latter, apparently, was used as a red herring in this profuse flattery.

THE LETTERS themselves, their publication having been approved by the Beaconsfield trustees, are likely to make one gape. Thus from the office of the Prime Minister of England on March 13, 1874 issued this gush to Lady Bradford: "The most fascinating of women was never more delightful than this afternoon. I could have sat forever watching every movement that was grace and listening to her sparkling words. But alas! the horrid thought—ever and anon came over me—it is a farewell visit! It seemed too cruel." Lady Bradford, becoming alarmed, suggested that her eminent correspondent should put in his letters "no feelings, only facts," he came back with such an outburst as this: "For myself, I should have no objection to pass the days in an aisle of oranges and myrtles, but then, it must be an enchanted isle, illuminated ever with the soft effulgence of a crescent moon." And thus addressed, Lady Bradford was soon allowing herself to become not only "Dearest," but "Dear Darling." Finally he even went so far as to propose marriage to the elder sister, Lady Chesterfield, in order to become more friendly as brother-in-law with the younger.

NO LESS encouraging are the latest of Mr. Emil Ludwig's revelations about Abraham Lincoln in his new biography. He shows that Lincoln was so heaped at home that he would sometimes sleep on a couch in his office and dine on crackers and cheese rather than going home, and often, as his wife failed to sew buttons on his trousers, he would hitch his suspenders up with a whittled peg of wood. When a man so heaped could become President of the United States, these facts should be cheering to countless modern husbands who suffer the same treatment. The only drawback is that the presidency and like positions are open to so few of us, but hespecking is free to all.

Too Much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

timber, has only sufficient timber to last another forty years at the present rate of cutting. Major David T. Mason, head of the firm of Mason and Stevens of Portland, Ore., told delegates to the twentieth annual session of the Pacific Logging Congress here yesterday. Major Mason estimated the total timber stand at 540,000,000 trees, which he said was materially lessened due to the inaccessibility of a large percentage of the timber. The total actual stand could be increased by half, he said, when merchantable species other than fir were considered.

When Your Joints Are Sore, Stiff or Creaky--Joint-Ease

Even Chronic Rheumatic Swellings in Ankle Knee Elbow, Shoulder or Finger Joints Yield to the Mighty Powerful Influence of JOINT-EASE.

It's here, right in town and every live druggist is selling it like hot cakes. It's a low price remedy, to be sure, but that doesn't stop it from taking the kinks, lameness or torture out of your troubled joints.

Joint-Ease is the name, so-called because it is compounded solely for the purpose of relieving all joint ailments.

Just rub it on the tormented, lame joints and in just a few seconds it will penetrate to the bone and tendons, and blessed comfort comes quickly.

It absorbs instantly and is so clean that you can rub it on often and thereby get results much more quickly, especially when the joint is inflamed and the agony intense.

Being such a powerful counter irritant, it cannot help bringing speedy and helpful results in congestion, sore throat, chest colds, lumbago and neuralgia much quicker than any ordinary remedy.

But you must remember that it is for joint afflictions that it is mostly dispensed and its helpfulness will astonish you after all liniments and other treatments have failed. Joint-Ease is made in Canada—60 cents a tube at any live druggist. (Adv.)

MR. RAMSAY'S REMARKS

To the Editor:—In the report of my remarks at Sanich Liberal Association annual meeting, I am quoted as saying: "It seems that protection is at an end in the United States." This should read, "It seems that the trend towards higher protection is at an end in the United States."

I endeavored to prove that this view was justified by the forces of current events, and economic pressure.

POPPY APPEAL

To the Editor:—The possibility of abandonment of the local Armistice appeal for funds as stated in Sunday's Colonist surely casts a great slur upon the name and people of this city.

In turning down this appeal we should bear in mind that it is Empire wide, every little town, village and hamlet individually answering to the cry of suffering and want of their local war dependents.

Is Victoria going to be held as an example to the rest of the world as the city who, although richer per capita than any other city in Canada, yet is not big enough to support this appeal?

In the article above referred to, it states "One gentleman, who claims to be the mouthpiece of the public, said the war was a thing of the past, its memory had faded, and veterans could not expect to support an appeal which is an annual occurrence." This gentleman evidently did not go to the war, for if he had he would not have seen horrors, miseries and suffering, the memories of which will never wane while life lasts. My old schoolmaster has three sons, Eric, Noel and Cyril. Three nice boys who were all killed. Does this gentleman think that this father's memory wanes? Evidently he did not lose anybody near and dear to him, or he would not make a statement of this kind. He also seems to forget that the majority of the public, whom he claims to be the mouthpiece of, have scars both mental and physical—that are constant reminders, and which will not let their memories wane quite so easily as his. He also seems to forget that it is only by keeping these memories alive that a repetition, more horrible than the last, will be prevented.

I do hope that Mr. Hart, honorary organizer of the Poppy Day appeal, will not be discouraged by the attitude of the business men referred to in Sunday's article or this gentleman who claims to be the mouthpiece of the public, and "carry on."

J. H. LIVSEY.

COST OF DISEASE

To the Editor:—A great deal of time and space has been expended in the past in the discussion of disease, medicine, hospitals and preventive work by medical men and nursing staffs. The latest is contained in an address by Dr. Young, Provincial Health Officer, before the Women's Institutes of Vancouver Island.

Without any more preliminaries, please let me challenge some of his statements as reported in your issue of October 22.

He states that the "cost of curing disease was enormous and British Columbia was spending far too much on hospital buildings and sanatorium maintenance and on insane asylums and such facilities."

The cost of curing disease should not worry Dr. Young, nor any other medico; first, because it means their livelihood, and secondly, it is not being done, and never can. I have yet to hear of a single authentic case of a cure of any disease by medicine alone.

Apparently, the hardest fight the medical men have, to wage is not against those who accuse them of ineffectual "pus," but in keeping this expenditure from being entirely eliminated. What battle against these accusers has been fought in the open by medical men? I challenge Dr. Young to prove one of his statements before any public body, or even to a debate on the subject of "pus pushing" at any time or place. What is this harmless preparation that will immunize a child for five years? Is it the same stuff that killed so many children who had been inoculated in different parts of the world at different times?

Insulin, for which so much was claimed at the time of its discovery, is not a cure and has been repudiated as such by its discoverer. The stories of wonderful and heroic measures taken by aeroplane and dog-team to relieve communities are discounted by the participants as beautiful examples of newspaper propaganda work and not in accordance with facts.

Will Dr. Young stake his reputation and position on his statement that immunizing work is responsible for the lack of diphtheria in Sanich? Has the wonderful weather, better hygienic conditions and that strange thing called "luck" nothing to do with the matter? Is it because of an occasional misguided individual allowing himself, or his child, to become vaccinated that we have no smallpox? And in what manner is vaccination a "sure protection from

If somebody put a plate of steaming, tempting tomato soup in front of you... soup rich with big, red-ripe tomatoes... don't say you wouldn't murmur something like the above... you wouldn't be human if you didn't."

When that first aroma reaches you... can't you just see 'em... fields and fields of them...

big, red-ripe juicy tomatoes... And if you could see those same red-ripe tomatoes in our kitchens... simmering in huge kettles... giving every ounce of their goodness to this soup! What else could we produce but the very best of tomato soup?

Daddy Adam was tempted by an apple... but that was before the days of such tomatoes as you'll find in CLARK'S TOMATO SOUP.

smallpox"? Did it protect the child of a family lately returned from California, whose parents and grandparents are aware of the fact that vaccination was the direct cause of death—as it has been in more instances of late years, in England, particularly, than from smallpox itself?

If it is so good, what prevents some learned medical man from giving a public lecture or dissertation on the exact methods used in the preparation and application and later effects of vaccine or serum of any kind? I am open to conviction and if I knew just how these inoculations would affect me personally, I not only would become vaccinated, and inoculated tomorrow, but I would devote my life to missionary work among the misguided and ignorant who cause the government so much worry and expense in curing that which could be so easily prevented.

There are many other "dictas" that I would like to discuss, but I refrain, except to ask Dr. Young if he would publish the letter of the M.H.O. of Oak Bay municipality in reply to a questionnaire regarding the desirability of making vaccination and inoculation less onerous to conscientious objectors. It has the merit of, at least, detailing the methods of vaccination and is apparently the honest conviction of that officer.

VICTOR ODLUM MOVES VANCOUVER OFFICES

Vancouver, Oct. 24.—The investment firm of Victor W. Odium, Brown and Company is moving from its offices formerly occupied in the Star Building to the B.C. Permanent Building at 330 Pender Street West.

Formerly General Odium devoted most of his time to the Vancouver Star, but is in future confining himself to that of a general financial business with his firm, in which is associated with him Colonel A. M. Brown.

The firm will continue its policy of a general investment business and insurance, specializing particularly in Government and municipal bonds and western Canadian corporation financing, he said.

Colonel Brown has been president of the British Columbia Bond Dealers' Association during the last two years and is at the present time on the executive of the Investment Bankers' Association of Canada.

The new offices have been redecorated throughout by A. V. Lewis, the lighting rearranged by the Northern Electric Company, with furnishings by David Spencer Limited and the Brooks Corning Company. A new system of oil burning heating has been installed. The building was acquired recently from the Canada Permanent Trust Company which acquired the assets of the B.C. Permanent Loan Company a year or so ago.

MOTHER URGES THAT PARENTS STAY OUT OF SCHOOL AFFAIRS

Mrs. F. W. D. writes: "I am very much interested in your articles and believe they are just crammed with good sense and sound reasoning. "I have a little girl five years of age. She is going to kindergarten now, but not having been with children before, mostly on account of sickness, she is having quite a time. However, since I have given her to understand that when she is in school the teacher takes my place, and I have not interfered in the school discipline, she is coming along fine. Couldn't you give mothers an idea of this? "I know some children are getting away with things they wouldn't even think of if their parents wouldn't interfere and take their parts all the time. We know teachers have their hands full and need help from parents & believe (personal violence excepted) that school discipline goes a long way toward making the child understand what can be expected later on in life when he has to rub against the rest of the world. I thank you for reading this."

ANSWER

I thank you for your kind remarks about the department. Being thought sensible and reasonable fulfills my secret ambitions. Your own words are full of wisdom, for just as mothers should let their children fight their own battles, so should they let the teacher handle her pupils without interference from the parents. It often happens that the teacher is unaware of this interference, for the mother never talks to her about points of disagreement, but instead fills the child's mind with the arguments the parent would use against her. Instead of upholding the teacher, she eggs the child on to resent and rebel against her treatment. All children do not appeal to teachers and one of those children may be your child. It is natural for a parent to resent biased or unfair treatment, but if she wishes to right matters, she should talk it over with the teacher without the child's knowledge. It does not pay to criticize the teacher before the child, even if you feel her judgment has been bad. It is quite true that from the moment the child goes out into the world he takes the bumps that a cold world gives him. He should learn to take them without resentment. The wisest and kindest thing any parent can do for her child is to encourage him to adjust himself to unpleasant conditions. Minimize them but don't load chips on the child's shoulder to be carried through life as an increasing load.

Then if the teacher is unnecessarily severe, temper your own treatment at home so that the child get both kinds. He'll learn to manage so that he accepts blame and criticism, realizing the rewards and develops into a stronger individual because of them.

MAY BUILD A BABY TO ORDER

Japanese Scientist Claims to Be Able to Change Indian to Negro

New York, Oct. 24.—Dr. Yashuro Noguchi, Japanese scientist, returned yesterday from Brazil with the announcement that after an extensive study of racial characteristics, he could practically build an infant to order.

Through the use of ultra-violet rays and stimulation or diminution of glandular activity, he says an infant's growth may be retarded or increased and its stature, breadth of shoulders and other physical characteristics may be fixed.

Dr. Noguchi, who has studied jungle inhabitants under a grant from the Japanese Government, claims that by electrical nutrition and glandular control, he could change an Indian into a negro, or a Japanese to a Caucasian. Racial characteristics, he said, are the result of a combination of glandular secretions and physical environment.

C.P.R. OFFICER IS BRIDEGROOM

Miss Joyce E. Rees Bride of James Eddie of Princess Charlotte

In the presence of a large number of friends, the marriage of Joyce E. Rees, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Rees, Fleming Street, and Mr. James Eddie, only son of Mrs. Margaret Eddie, Goldsmith Street, and the late George Linday Eddie, of Beardsden, Scotland, was solemnized last evening by Rev. J. S. Patterson at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Victoria West, at 7 o'clock.

Masses of autumn flowers graced the church and during the ceremony the bride party stood under a floral arch. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was smartly gowned in white silk tulle with a long train, and a wide silk sash. Her hair was styled in a long, wavy, finger-wave and held in place with a circlet of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was a shower of Ophelia roses and white carnations.

Miss Marjorie Gillies was the bride's only attendant and wore a frock of peach-colored satin, the skirt of which was formed of four frills of tulle to match. She wore a poke-shaped hat of black lace and velvet and her bouquet was a shower of pale pink roses and carnations. The groom was supported by Mr. Archie Millar and the ushers were Messrs. Crawford Ellis and George Preston. Mr. Dalimore presided at the organ and during the signing of the register, Mrs. W. Gohee sang "Because."

Following the service at the church, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where many guests assembled to offer their good wishes. Autumn flowers were used in profusion to decorate the home.

A three-tier wedding cake centred the supper table, which also had for decoration fragrant flowers artistically arranged.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie left later on a trip to California, and on their return to Victoria will make their home on Michigan Street. Among the many handsome wedding gifts were a standard electric lamp from the staff of A. Macdonald & Co. Limited, where the bride has been employed, and a silver and gold rose bowl from the staff of the St. Princess Charlotte, of which ship the groom is third officer.

Among the cut-up guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. W. Knight, Mr. and Mrs. R. Campbell and Mr. Rex Hughes, all of Hamberston.

W.B.A. Banquet Commemorates Its Founding

The annual banquet of W.B.A. Review in commemoration of the founding of the association, was held in the "Coffee Shoppe" on Monday evening, after which a short business meeting was held in the K. of C. Hall.

The meeting adjourned and a very pleasant social time was spent, the feature of the evening being a miscellaneous show for Miss Margaret McIntyre, whose marriage is to take place in the near future, her fellow officers taking this opportunity of presenting her with a beautiful silver dish, suitably engraved.

An enjoyable programme was arranged by Mrs. Laing, assisted by Mrs. McAllister, vocal solos by Miss Charlebois and a recitation and piano solo by Miss Christine Schiele being much appreciated. The winners of the contest were: Mrs. Schiele, Miss Charlebois and Mrs. Matteson; a novel and amusing contest was won by Mrs. Trowdale's group, the group led by Mrs. Minnie winning second prize. The peanut prize was won by Mrs. Laxton. A community sing brought the entertainment to a close, Mrs. Schiele presiding at the piano throughout the evening.

The adjourned meeting will assemble at the K. of C. Hall on Tuesday evening next at 7.30 o'clock. Many important items of business will be discussed and plans made in preparation for the visit of the ritualistic inspector.

"Such white linen! how do you do it?" she exclaimed

Yet my wash is never scrubbed or boiled

[How my secret amazed her!]

I COULD have laughed aloud to see how puzzled she was. I guess she never saw such gleaming, snowy linens.
"Is this cloth new?" she demanded.
"New?" I laughed. "I've had it ever since I was married."
"But my linens are dingy, yellow—I can't understand it. Some of my tablecloths are threadbare from scrubbing, yet they never look as white as this."
A glow of pleasure surged through me. I knew I was a good housekeeper. I wouldn't think of permitting my wash to be scrubbed... why, that's so old-fashioned!
"My linens never touch a washboard," I said—enjoying her amazement.
"Then how does your laundress get them so much whiter than mine?"
"I have her use Rinso—you know, the granulated soap. It soaks out dirt. It gets clothes so white, scrubbing and boiling aren't necessary. That saves clothes."

"You mean to say a mere soap can make such a difference?"

"No other soap is like Rinso! Its suds are the richest, creamiest you ever saw. One cupful of this granulated soap goes farther than two cupfuls of those lightweight, puffed-up soaps."

"I must get some Rinso tomorrow!"

Safe—for tub or washer

Rinso suds are safe. The makers of 36 leading washing machines recommend this famous granulated soap. Great for tub washing, too.

Rinso's thick suds are also marvelous for dishes—loosen grease in a flash. No grit. Get the BIG package of Rinso now.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

MANAGING a major league baseball club is becoming a more precarious job with each succeeding year. With the demand for winning clubs causing such keen competition for the big league pilots, there may come a day when aging ball players no more will harbor dreams of blossoming out as baseball managers. Never before in the history of baseball has there been as much confusion among the heads that wear the managerial crowns as there has been at the close of the 1929 season. Six of the boys are definitely out of their old jobs, with the strong possibility that one more will draw his salary check from a different source next winter. Two of the six have been caught on where others were dropped, and it is quite likely that one or more of the remaining four will fare likewise.

Lena Blackburne of the Chicago White Sox was the first to go. His inability to handle the belligerent Art Shires cost him his job. Lena's job was a thankless one, and no doubt he was glad to be rid of it. With business office interference and lack of club harmony that was there long before Lena inherited the job, it is a question if any manager could have done better.

Donie Bush, who was fired at Pittsburgh, fell into Lena's job only after he made sure that he was going to be the manager in fact as well as in name. Donie will stand for no monkey business, even if he has to hire Jack Dempsey as coach in an attempt to curb the tough Shires.

Jack Hendricks, who served with more or less success with the Cincinnati Reds, wore out his welcome and was handed his walking papers. Jack is a great fellow, but the bloodthirsty Cincinnati rooters finally turned thumbs down on him. Jack doesn't seem to be worrying much, as at the world series he was all smiles. He said he had a big load off his mind and for the present has no plans for the future.

Bill McKee could have stayed on as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, but thought more of a permanent address, so he signed a four-year contract to manage Judge Emil Fuchs's Boston Braves.

Bill Carrigan, who for the last four years has been trying to kind the winning spark in the Boston Red Sox, has announced he will give it up as a bad job.

Carrigan, a great catcher and one of the brainiest players of his day, could do nothing to boost the lowly Sox. Lack of first-class material handicapped him. But Bill doesn't have to worry about a baseball job anyway, as he is one of the frequent bankers of Lewiston, Me. The man who succeeds him will have to be an optimist, for the Red Sox look more like Slinger's Midgets than a major league ball club.

Howling Dan Howley, who built the St. Louis Browns from a rank-and-out club into a snappy fighting division outfit, fell into the hands of the owners. They accused Dan of talking out of turn and replaced him with Bill Killefer, erstwhile coach. Howley took it philosophically and is ready for any offer.

Jack Dempsey made a good start as a promoter with the Jackie Fields-Vince Dundee bout, but that was a great match, but that Dempsey strengthened his card with a lot of other good bouts, when promoters usually depend on putting on a bunch of cheap preliminaries. Perhaps Dempsey borrowed the idea from his friend, Floyd Fitzsimmons, who likes to back his main events with a bunch of real fights. Anyway, Dempsey caught the crowd and will draw "big" in any future show he puts on. Besides that, Dempsey is no man to hide in the back-ground and let his name do all the work. He was all over the arena, seeing that things were run off briskly, and he even had time to shoot out a neat little talk over the "mic."

The result of Dempsey's success with his first show as an independent promoter will probably settle once and for all his coming back to fight again. Why take all those hard knocks and thrumps when it is just as profitable and so much easier to train for the promoter's job?

There should be some interest in the return bout between Ignacio Fernandez and Al Singer. Fernandez knocked Singer out last time, after being fouled continuously and persistently in a manner that seemed to be quite deliberate. A gambler, this Filipino, and a hard hitter, even if he isn't a champion. He was much sadder than Singer that night, and is likely to be gamer again, although Al Singer is a brilliant performer at times, and looks more like a champion than most of them. Fernandez got his hand in for the Singer fight by knocking out Kid Ponce, a wallowing Mexican, last week in Los Angeles.

The Filipinos who have come to the United States are all great little fighters. There hasn't been a weak sister among them. They fight from bell to bell, if they are being beaten they fight harder. They have pride, grit, and the aggressiveness of a man with a hole in his head, and they are good sportsmen. Scores of these little brown men fight, and not one has ever failed to do his best all the way, and take victory or defeat like a sportsman.

PROMOTER ARRESTED

Houston, Texas, Oct. 24.—Frankie Edwards, New Orleans fight promoter, object of an intensive hunt by creditors about a month ago after his disappearance with the $12,000 proceeds of the Wolfe-Cannonier scrap in New Orleans, was arrested here last night. He admitted his identity.

NAVY ELEVEN DROP THEIR FIRST POINT

Are Held to 2-2 By Hudson's Bay Team in Wednesday League Soccer

Tars Have About Cinched Trophy; Saanich United Win From Batchelors

When they were held to a 2-2 draw yesterday afternoon at Beacon Hill by the Hudson's Bay eleven, the Navy dropped their first point this season in the Wednesday Football League. In the second match of the day Saanich United managed to take out a 3-2 victory over Batchelors at the Royal Athletic Park.

With but two matches remaining to be played in the Hayward Cup series, the Navy enjoy a two-point lead over Saanich United. Next week the tars play Batchelors while Saanich meets the Hudson's Bay.

Running in two goals in the last ten minutes of the game the Navy managed to gain a 2-2 draw with the Hudson's Bay eleven. Up until this stage it looked like the departmentals had the game safely tucked away. The Bays scored the only goal of the first half and then added another in the second for what appeared a safe lead. However, the tars, determined to stave off their first defeat of the season, beat Shrimpton for two fine goals to earn a draw and one point.

Play for the first twenty-five minutes saw-sawed from one end of the field to the other with the Bays having the edge. Zanelli, in the tars' goal, was called upon to make several spectacular saves in order to keep the Bays from scoring.

DAYS IN LEAD

The store eleven finally took the lead on Jack Payne's goal. After the interval the Bays pressed and it was not long before Payne netted his second goal beating Zanelli when he booted home a rebound from King's shot that hit the post.

Two goals down the Navy worked hard and with ten minutes to go Johnson scored their initial goal. The Navy remained on the offensive and were awarded a free kick just outside the penalty area. Robinson drove a hard shot into the corner of the net to put the tars on to even terms and end the evening for the game.

"Scotty" McKay refereed.

The teams were as follows:

Navy—Zanelli, E. Plummer, Tate, McDonald, Robinson, C. Whyte, A. Plummer, Marr, Spriddell, Johnston and Cozier.

Hudson's Bay—Shrimpton, Wallace, Small, Oakman, Woodley, Cull, Newell, Fish, King, Payne and Armstrong.

Netting the ball halfway through the second period, Stoller, inside right for Saanich United, gave his team a 2-2 victory over Batchelors in a ragged week soccer fixture at the Royal Athletic Park.

Neither team put up a commendable brand of soccer, but the goals of the respective elevens showed fair form at times.

Saanich United started on the attack at the beginning of the game and came close to scoring twice, but Ted Carey, between the sticks for the storemen, saved nicely.

Batchelors retaliated with an offensive play and gave them three corners, but no goals.

Twenty minutes through the half, Addie secured the ball and sent in a flicker. McMilloy followed in and headed the ball into the net, but was called off side.

McMILLOY SCORES

After twenty-five minutes' play, Taylor, right wing for the storemen, scored twice. The line and crossed to McMilloy. McMilloy took the ball and hit the ground and sent in a high shot that beat Restall to give Batchelors the lead.

Tooby had a chance to equalize shortly after, but skied over the bar with no one in front of him but the goalkeeper.

Saanich worked in close and got in several good shots, but Carey saved. The remainder of the half elapsed without a goal.

During the first twenty minutes of the second period play was about evenly divided.

LUCKY COUNTER

At this point Hawkes took a pass from Stoller near the storemen's goal and shot. The ball rebounded off Batchelors' back and went into the net for the Saanich boys' first counter.

Two minutes later play swung to the Saanich end. McMilloy rushed in following a shot and jostled the goal-keeper. He came out of the net and fouled McMilloy. The storemen were given a penalty kick.

French Owned Horse Winner To Pay $84.50

Brigueil Captures Governor Ogle Steeplechase From Classy Field

Winners at Latonia in Sensational Performance; Run in Snow at Aurora

New York, Oct. 24.—Brigueil, French thoroughbred jumper, handed the talent a telling blow yesterday at Laurel as he won the Governor Ogle steeplechase handicapped and $8,775 for his owner, C. R. Fleischman.

But Fleischman was not the only person to profit by the ten length victory over the best of the jumpers in training at the Maryland track. A few scattered backers were repaid $84.50 for every $3 invested at the mutual windows.

R. R. Bradley's Beesbub, another rank outsider, finished second and paid $21.70 to place and $10.30 to show. Six lengths farther away came W. F. Hitt's Crumpler.

Nine starters got away over the jumps with the Widener entry of MacCarthy More and Archlight established as the favorites, but neither was ever a factor. At one stage of the race Red Rocket II from the Sanford stud farm was a dozen lengths in front, but quit going into the eleventh fence and was never headed.

The West Point Handicap brought out the best field at Empire City with the Newtendale stable's Eldara winning the event under 104 pounds. A half length ahead of the winner at the end of the mile and seventy yard jaunt was Turf Writer, while in third place was Okaynee, the early pacesetter. The distance was run in 1:44 2-5 over a good track.

EASY VICTORIES

At Latonia, the winners of most of the seven events turned in sensational performances. Kay McCook came through in the opening number with an eight length victory. Peggy Lee didn't do so well in the second, but managed to get the decision by a length and a half. Then in the third, McCulloch, making his first start since June, just romped home twelve lengths in front of his field. Purple Sand continued the parade in the fourth with a six length triumph while Alvin Gamble finished the fifth with the same distance separating him from the second horse.

Seven claiming affairs made up the card at Aurora for a very small crowd. Rain mixed with an occasional flurry of snow made it disagreeable for the spectators. The fourth event brought out the best of an ordinary lot with S. Polk's three-year-old Tryter Bill, Saddle Skirta, proving the best of the field. The victory put an end to Little Asbestos's string of three straight in the last ten days of racing.

Walker Will Be Forced to Break "Jinx"

Five Champions Have Lost Their Crowns in a Los Angeles Ring

Los Angeles, Oct. 24.—The question of whether Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, will be able to break the jinx that has been the lot of many titleholders who risked and lost their crown in a local ring will be answered when he meets Ace Hudkins in a ten-round battle at Wrigley Field next Tuesday night.

Ask the Nebraska Wildcat and he will predict the downfall of the titleholder. Hudkins planned a light workout today as a step in his polishing off for the bout. Yesterday he tore into his sparring partners with a determination that promises trouble for Walker.

The champion, still slightly overweight, figured on another lively session with his stable mate, The Rumbler, N.J. rocker, is confident that he can shatter the precedent which has shown so many winners of boxing crowns of their coronets here.

A GREAT ARMY

The array of champions going down in defeat started back in 1903 when "Young" Papke knocked out Stanley Ketchel, middleweight champion in twelve rounds. Since that day, Williams Morris, Archie Rubra, Harrison, Taylor and any others who wish to play.

A meeting will be held after the practice for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year.

Beautiful Wenger And Winter Cups Will Be At Stake

Entries Must Be Filed With Jack Taylor by November 16; Competition Will Get Under Way Early in December; Red Birds Hold Wenger Cup While Crescents Are in Possession of Winter Trophy; Teams From All Over Island to Play; City League Schedule Announced.

To decide the holders of the Johnny Wenger and George Winter Cups, entries are now being called for the Island open knockout basketball leagues, according to an announcement made this morning by Jack Taylor, president of the City Basketball League. All teams must file their entries by November 16 with the head of the local league. It is intended to stage the initial games in the competition about the first week in December. The knockout series is staged under the auspices of the Vancouver Island Basketball Association.

Last year the series was not run off until late in the season, but the Island League officials have decided this season to have the knockout events completed before the B.C. play-offs get under way.

The Wenger trophy, which is for men's teams on the Island, is at present held by the Crescents of this city, but they have disbanded this season and will not defend the cup. The Winter Cup, competed for by the women's teams, was captured last season by the Red Birds, also of this city. As they are organized again this year they will no doubt enter the competition.

This series creates considerable interest among basketball followers in Victoria as it brings in a number of outside teams. Squads from all parts of the Island enter and the competition last year was exceptionally keen, with the local teams meeting stiff opposition from Up-Island representatives.

When questioned this morning regarding exhibition games for this season, President Taylor stated that the Multnomah Athletic Club of Portland were desirous of playing a series of six games on the Island during the week between Christmas and New Year. This team has succeeded the famous Checkers of the Rose City and an idea of their strength can be seen from the fact that they have twenty-seven players on their roster. The Checkers appeared here in exhibition games every winter for several years. Nothing definite has been decided yet as to whether or not the Portlanders will be brought north.

President Taylor released the schedule for the next month for the City League teams. Owing to the fact that definite arrangements cannot be made regarding the High School gymnasium the City League has been forced to draw up their schedule by the month. Games from October 31 to the end of November follow:

"The Cascade"

You could never induce them to break away from the "Cascade." It would be as difficult to persuade a golf enthusiast to give up his game.

On their first trip they found just what suited them.
Nothing overdone, yet, being discriminating, they discovered on the "Cascade" the same distinction, the same good taste and attentive service that won them over to their favorite hotel or country club.

So now, it's always the "Cascade." And they've noticed that they are not alone in being "choosy" about trains. Every trip they see familiar faces—people they've seen before on this same train going to, or coming from, California.

Madison Square Garden Will Face Stiff Opposition in

New York, Oct. 23.—The goose that laid the golden egg at Miami Beach last winter will have to work overtime this season to bring prosperity to all the fistic ventures now sprouting on Florida's sands.

Three separate organizations are planning to step boldly in where Madison Square Garden for a time feared to tread after Tex Rickard died last winter and left the battle of Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling an unwelcome orphan on Big Bill Carey's hands. Now the president of the Garden, with a record of financial success where failure was expected, is only one of a number eager to exploit fistifuffs in the southern playground when the winter snows fly up north.

THE FINEST SELECTION OF RADIOS IN VICTORIA

A Sport Daddy —By Jimmy Thompson

It needs a big man to fill a big job in sports and in St. Catharines, one of the liveliest sports centres in Ontario, Harold G. (Touch) Woods is the man.
Just now he is about everything here is over there in sport, being the district commissioner of the A.A.U. of C. as well as matchmaker of the St. Kitts A.A.A., and one of the best boxing experts in Ontario. He first came into the limelight at the age of sixteen to catch for the Dufferins of Toronto. Next year, 1913, he went to Cobalt; in 1914 to the South Michigan League; in 1915 to the Hamilton Canadian League team in their last year, then to the St. Marys, Athens and Wellingtons in the Toronto City League. He organized the first St. Catharines ball team since the pre-war days and has been manager of it for the past three years. He is manager of a transport company, manager of the Grads baseball team and devotes his odd 200 pounds to pinch-hitting for the Garden Cities pin bowling team, where he throws a "wicked" strike.

Bert Acres's Basket Gives "Y" Team Win

Slips Ball Through Hoop in Last Minute to Defeat West
Road 21-19

Through the default of the Motor Mechanics, only two games were played in the City Basketball League last evening at the Y.M.C.A. The Red Birds won from the Hudson's Bays, 27-6 in the women's game, while the Y.M.C.A. took the West Road team into camp 21-19 in one of the best games witnessed this season.
The men's encounter was very much in doubt right through to the last couple of minutes of play. The teams were deadlocked at many stages of the game and at no time was either team more than two baskets ahead.

West Road put up a type of game that coped with the careful passing of the "Y" boys and when they advanced the ball to their opponents' end of the floor it was generally to get the necessary points.

Headed by the diminutive and cool
Johnny Craig, the "Y" seem to be the best team in the "B" section and they have worked out one of the best styles of play seen here for a long time. They seldom make a wild pass and coupled with fast breaking when they get the ball, are always dangerous. They have played most of the Senior "A" teams in town and have earned two draws in practice games.

WEST ROAD LEAD

At the half time period West Road had a two-point lead, the score being 10-8 after George Lannon had scored several nice baskets. In the next nine minutes of play the "Y" had the edge and scored six points, while their opponents only added two to make it even at 12-12. Again the West Roaders surged ahead to what seemed the winning points but a rally by the "Y" put them again on even terms and then one basket ahead at 19-17, but Parrott of the losers evened the score again to 19-19. With but one minute left Bert Acres who is generally a heavy point-getter, dropped the ball through hoop for the winning basket.

George Lannon, of West Road, led the scorers with ten points, while Eugene, the "Y" centre, led their efforts, with seven counters, closely followed by Johnny Rowlands, with six. Craig, although he did not get many points, carried the ball on many plays and made some telling passes.

The line-ups and scores follow:
Y.M.C.A.—Acres 4, Bagley 2, Craig 2, Lawson, Engleton 7, Rowlands 6 and Ruttan. Total 21.

West Road—C. Sluggetta 2, Claude
Sluggetta 2, Parrott 4, G. Lannon 10,
M. Lannon 1, Andrews and M. Rice.
Total 19.

Red Birds, playing in the women's Senior "B" section of the league, registered their first points in the win column when they defeated the Hudson's Bay, 27-6. The Red Birds are rapidly rounding into first class form and should be able to give the Fedeis a good game when they meet again. Torrie Rennie was high scorer with sixteen points; B. Peacock scored the Bay's six points.

Bill Blair refereed.
The teams and scores follow:
Red Birds—M. Wulson, C. Pudge, T.
Rennie 16, E. Smith 4, M. Bush, B.
Boyce 5, V. Taylor 2, D. Lea and K.
Atherton. Total 27.
Hudson's Bay—B. Peacock 4, P.
Butts, G. Cook, E. Mathews, J. Mc-Donald, C. Fulton and P. Buxton.
Total 6.

TO-NIGHT'S GAMES

To-night at the Centennial Hall three games will be played and some good basketball should result. Priors will make their debut in the Senior
"C" league against the fast James

Inland aggregation, while the second Victoria High School team will meet the basketweavers from the J.B.A.A.
The last game on the card should prove to be the best as two undefeated teams are meeting for the first time. Foresters and Fouries both have well-balanced teams with the former having a young club with plenty of speed while the latter have several veterans in their line-up who can show the way when it comes to shooting baskets.

To-morrow night at the Victoria
High School another trio of games are carded. C.P.S. and Fedens are due to meet in the feature game of the evening. Fedens have a young and fast team and although they will have to play without Joe Rose, who was injured last week, will be fighting to get their first win. Last week they held the Capitals to the last five minutes and then lost by two baskets.
C.P.S. will rely on the old brigade of Stew Skillings, George Davis, George

Fagerbourg, Ralph Butler, George
Warnock, and Gordon Woolridge.
Fedens will have Chuck Chapman,
Bill White, Tommy Wachter, Stan
Moore, Tom Little and Bud Hocking.
In the other two games the Navy will battle Keating in a Senior "C" game, while Keating girls and the Arlans will tangle.

Victoria Golf Club Women To Meet To-morrow

The annual meeting of the Victoria Golf Club women will be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the clubhouse. Election of officers for the coming year will take place, and a large attendance is requested.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and soothe the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

SAY MINISTER IMPOSED BAN UPON INDIANS

Saanich Trustees Disclaim Initiative in Closure of School to Aborigines

W. E. Ditchburn, Indian Commissioner, will be informed by the Saanich School Board that exclusion of four Indian children from West Saanich school, followed reception from Hon. Joshua Hinchcliffe, Minister of Education, of explicit instructions. Mr. Ditchburn will be informed that the exclusion order, which affected children known to be clean, well dressed and well behaved, was issued with extreme regret and was based on the following paragraph of the Minister's letter of direction: "I respectfully suggest to your board that the practice should be discontinued." Trustees expressed great regret that they had been compelled to refuse tuition to Canadian children. Trustee Brooks said he understood a larger number of Indian children were clamoring for school privileges and suggested that the time is now ripe for establishment of a special school on the North Saanich Reserve. This matter is now being taken up with the Indian Department, a letter from C. H. Dickie, M.P., informed the board.

All letters must be received at the office of The Times not later than midnight of Wednesday, November 20. Announcements of the winners with their letters will be made the following Monday, November 25.

Now is the time to get busy. There certainly is a Santa Claus and all the world knows that he lives right on top of the world 'way up at the North Pole.

Of course there are some little boys and girls who don't think there is a Santa, but that is just all they know about it. You can prove it to them now that you know there is one and he will come to see you at Christmas and with the money from your letter you can buy just lots of presents and candy.

Address your letter to the Santa Claus Editor, The Victoria Daily Times and be sure you mail it in plenty of time. Then Watch The Times for your name among the winners.

No Harm in Pure Cascara

Whenever a coated tongue, bad breath, disordered stomach or general "run-down" feeling tell you Nature needs a little help in promoting normal elimination you can take a Cascaret without any fear of unpleasant after effects. Cascarets are a pure vegetable product, made from Cascara Sagrada, a substance which unquestionable authorities say actually strengthens the bowel muscles.

That's why you can take these pleasant-tasting tablets as often as you please—and give them freely to children or old folks. They are not habit-forming, like so many laxatives; they make it unnecessary to use violent purgatives.

The next time you have that bilious, headachy, dejected feeling that comes from a disordered stomach—or for any reason you suspect liver and bowels are not functioning just right—take a candy Cascaret.

Sister Mary's Kitchen

BY SISTER MARY

Very often some form of "quick" bread adds the finishing touch to an otherwise plain meal. Baking powder biscuits and honey, muffins and marmalade, cornmeal sticks and soup, brown bread and cottage cheese—these combinations and innumerable others are engaging and nourishing.

The chemical action back of the "quick" biscuit or muffin mixture is interesting and worth the cook's consideration.

There are three general types of baking powders on the market, but they all liberate approximately the same amount of carbon dioxide gas. Their main difference lies in their action in the dough before it is heated. The various powders differ also in their residue in the baked product. These compounds apparently have little effect on the other ingredients of the dough.

CORNMEAL MUFFINS

Two cups flour, 3/4 cup cornmeal, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons melted shortening, 1 egg, 1 cup milk.

When baking soda is used with sour milk, there is the combination of sodium bicarbonate and acid which produces carbon dioxide gas.

An emergency substitute can be made for baking powder by using for each teaspoonful of baking powder called for in the rule one-half teaspoon cream of tartar and one-fourth teaspoon baking soda. Less of the substitute is used because no filler is present.

Too little thought and care are given to the handling of doughs and batters made with baking powder. Too much stirring and manipulating produce soggy, misshapen and "tunneled" products. Quick work and little stirring prevent the escape and loss of carbon dioxide gas before the mixture begins to bake.

PREMIER KING TO START TOUR NEXT TUESDAY

Ottawa, Oct. 23.—A slight change in Premier King's plans for his tour of Western Canada was announced today. The Prime Minister will be unable to leave Ottawa until Tuesday night instead of Monday of next week, arriving in Winnipeg on Thursday. He will leave for the west after his Winnipeg speech on Friday night. West of Winnipeg his itinerary will stand as it was previously announced. He will make several public addresses in all western provinces.

TESTS AT CITY POLLS NOV. 1 IN ENGLAND

London, Oct. 24 (By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—Labor is now battling for the boroughs.

On November 1 approximately 500 county and municipal boroughs throughout England and Wales will elect one-third of the membership of their councils. Twenty-two of the borough councils already have Labor majorities. Labor is out to extend its municipal councils.

"First a Labor Government," so runs the slogan. "Now a labor council." In Bradford, Nottingham, Newcastle and Leicester the Labor party expects to capture the municipal machinery. In Cardiff, where Liberals and Conservatives have reached an agreement for a straight "anti-Socialist fight," Labor needs only two more members in the council to secure control.

NET GAINS

In Liverpool, where they have been firmly entrenched for generations, Conservatives are said to be regarding the prospect with anxiety. Last year Labor gained eleven seats in the Liverpool city council. In Salford, Coventry and Dudley, Labor is expected to net gains.

Mother Composed Song to Amuse Her Children

The five little children of Mrs. Sarah Hale crowded eagerly around their mother as she came into the house and took off her bonnet. Their father was dead, and their mother supported them by working on a magazine, which was a very busy woman, and the children were always delighted when they could have their mother to themselves for a while.

She, in her turn, loved to be with them, and could turn up all sorts of new ways of amusing them. Sometimes she would play the piano and make up a delightful, foolish little song for them to sing about the house.

To-night they surrounded her and led her to the piano, begging for a song. A new one had become their favorite, "Mary's Lamb!" they chorused. "Mary's Lamb!" Down to the piano she sat, and played it for them, while they all sang gaily.

The song, "Mary Had a Little Lamb," which she made up for her children, she later put in a book of songs for children, which she published, and all the world grew to know it and love it. Mrs. Hale was born 161 years ago to-day.

(Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle)

Mix and sift flour, salt, sugar and baking powder. Add cornmeal and mix. Beat egg until light and add milk and shortening. Add liquid ingredients to dry mixture and stir hard to mix. Fill oiled muffin tins about two-thirds full and bake twenty minutes in a hot oven.

Carbon dioxide gas is a leavening agent which is produced by the chemical action of an acid on sodium bicarbonate. The sodium bicarbonate or baking soda will not give off its gas until combined with the acid, so all baking powders must contain an acid and baking soda. A starch filler is added to keep these ingredients dry and inert.

When baking soda is used with sour milk, there is the combination of sodium bicarbonate and acid which produces carbon dioxide gas.

An emergency substitute can be made for baking powder by using for each teaspoonful of baking powder called for in the rule one-half teaspoon cream of tartar and one-fourth teaspoon baking soda. Less of the substitute is used because no filler is present.

Too little thought and care are given to the handling of doughs and batters made with baking powder. Too much stirring and manipulating produce soggy, misshapen and "tunneled" products. Quick work and little stirring prevent the escape and loss of carbon dioxide gas before the mixture begins to bake.

There are three general types of baking powders on the market, but they all liberate approximately the same amount of carbon dioxide gas. Their main difference lies in their action in the dough before it is heated. The various powders differ also in their residue in the baked product. These compounds apparently have little effect on the other ingredients of the dough.

CORNMEAL MUFFINS

Two cups flour, 3/4 cup cornmeal, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons melted shortening, 1 egg, 1 cup milk.

Canada Motor Output Sets Record in 1928

Ottawa, Oct. 24.—Production of Canada's automobile industry in 1928 reached a new high record value of $162,867,485, as compared with $128,700,314 in 1927 and $133,598,436 in 1926. These totals, as published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, include the value of cars, parts and accessories produced during the year and also the amounts received for custom work and repairs made at the factory. In 1928 parts and accessories were valued at $12,949,249, and receipts for custom work and repairs amounted to $741,247.

"If this party continues the Socialists will be enabled to capture the machine of local government."

Labor, on the other hand, argues that full advantage can not be taken of the Labor Government's social schemes unless there are Labor municipal councils to make them effective. Labor asserts the Government is offering financial assistance to municipal authorities to start public works and so relieve unemployment, but that in some cases the municipalities with anti-Labor majorities are not taking advantage of this offer. Therefore work that needs doing is being left undone, the Labor Party asserts.

CRUDE OIL CUT MOST RADICAL YET

New York, Oct. 24 (J.C. Bond).—Dealing with the present mixed oil outlook, The Herald-Tribune to-day says that gasoline stocks in California at the present time approximately are one-half those for the entire country and California's stock of petroleum and products about thirty per cent of all stocks in the United States. This explains the action of the California oil companies in reducing the market price of crude from forty to fifty per cent, the most radical price-cutting move in the industry's recent history.

For the month of September, Noranda is understood to have had a production value of approximately $1,350,000, as compared with a monthly production of between $900,000 and $950,000 three months previously. The higher grade copper and gold ore efficiently mentioned in the president's recent complete and enlightening remarks on what was taking place has been largely responsible.

One of the most important factors surrounding the Noranda situation is hoisting of concentrator to 1,500 tons daily capacity and the probability of further enlargement early next year, both as its own development and custom work for other properties. The concentrator will play a very important part in mine earnings. Concentrates will run at least ten per cent grade copper, three times the grade to be raised if the feed had otherwise gone direct to the smelter.

Oriental Pied Piper

Uses New Method

Because he wanted to "drive away the rats" from his vegetable garden, Kim Kee, Chinese, 311 a grass fire along the embankment on Hillside Avenue, near Scott Street. He thought this an effective way to frighten the rodents, he said, when arraigned in City Police Court this morning on a charge of lighting a fire without securing a license from the fire chief. Constable Douglas Bone, who passed the scene of the blaze, thought it had grown to unsafe dimensions and turned in an alarm, at the same time telling the accused he would have to summon him for the offense, he testified. The court gave no opinion on the methods of this Oriental "pied piper," but ruled he should first have obtained a license, and imposed a fine of $10 and costs of $2.50.

Capital of $200,000,000 Available to Acquire 20,000,000 Acres of Land in British Columbia for Settlement and Industrial Development, English Paper Says, Commenting Upon Visit of Minister of Employment.

Plans for an unemployment relief scheme which calls for the purchase of 20,000,000 acres of land in British Columbia to settle 20,000 English families on the land and to provide work by the development of industries for 80,000 workers are discussed in Great Britain following the visit of Mr. H. J. H. Thomas to Canada. The sum of $40,000,000, roughly $200,000,000, is given as the capital expenditure necessary, and this according to The East Kent Gazette is assured provided that Mr. Thomas and British Columbia can agree on the general principles. Including women and children 500,000 Britishers would settle in this Province under the plan, the article states. It reads as follows:

CAPITAL ASSURED
 "The Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, M.P., who shortly returns from Canada, is to discuss with Dr. C. T. Galbraith, of Vancouver, a big scheme for industrial and agricultural development in British Columbia. Mr. Thomas has already discussed the matter in British Columbia with Dr. Talmie, Premier of British Columbia, and it is learned that a scheme of the nature proposed by Mr. Thomas has had opportunities of studying the outlines of the scheme, and according to Dr. Galbraith, provided that he and the Premier of British Columbia agree on the general principles, the £40,000,000 capital required is already assured. The negotiations are successfully carried, large orders will be placed in Britain, thus providing employment here for British manufacturers whose possibilities of large orders for supplies are in touch with Dr. Galbraith."

RECORD TRAVEL Overnight Entries At Latonia FROM EAST IS NEW FEATURE

 N. R. Des Brisay, C.P.R. Passenger Agent, Says More Eastern Canadians Came
 "Travel to the Pacific Coast during the summer just completed has been the greatest that I can find on record," stated N. R. Des Brisay, general passenger agent for the Canadian Pacific Railway at Vancouver, who was in Victoria this morning on a business visit.

"I find," continued Mr. Des Brisay, "that more Canadian people from the east have been visiting the coast than ever before. They come as far as Banff and Lake Louise, and there, hearing of Victoria and Vancouver, come on to the coast, where they make long or short visits as the case may be. This year the company will make special efforts to develop Victoria and Vancouver as winter tourist resorts, especially for the people from the prairies. With the large addition here to the Empress Hotel and the attractive musical programme of concerts and festivals arranged for the winter months, many hundreds of people should come here from the central and eastern provinces."

1930 PLANS
 Mr. Des Brisay briefly spoke of plans being made for next season's tourist trade. The Alaska business this year was exceptionally heavy, and the three ships operating to the north were filled to capacity every trip. The same vessels, the Princess Charlotte, the Princess Louise and the Princess Alice, will be used for the Alaska tourist trade next year, sailing from Vancouver twice a week.

The two new steamers, the Princess Elizabeth and the Princess Joan will be on the coast for the summer business next year. They will be commissioned on the night run between Victoria and Vancouver, and will be able to handle nearly 600 night travelers. Both ships will be launched in Scotland early next year and will arrive here in April and May.

WEST COAST TRADE
 Mr. Des Brisay spoke enthusiastically of the tourist business to the west coast of Vancouver Island. With the advent of the new Princess Kora this summer the company handled large numbers of people to this out-of-the-way beauty spot during July and August. Next year the trade to the coast will be heavier than ever as the company is advertising the trip all over the continent.

The Princess Victoria will be in service next summer as a motor ferry between Victoria and Seattle. She is at present receiving an extensive overhaul at Yarrow's Limited. She will be operated on a convenient schedule between Victoria and Seattle direct, probably making two round trips each day. The service between Seattle and Stevenson, which was inaugurated this year, was most satisfactory. Mr. Des Brisay said, and the Motor Princess will be operated on the same route next season. "We are most optimistic about the 1930 business," Mr. Des Brisay declared, "and next year we believe there will be more people come to the coast cities than ever before."

BOARD TO ASK GAS EXTENSION

Esquimalt Body Seeks Service From B.C. Electric

A large amount of business was discussed at the monthly meeting of the Esquimalt Board of Trade Tuesday evening. A. T. Weight was elected secretary to replace Captain R. P. Matheson, who has returned to England. A committee was appointed to interview the B.C. Electric in reference to the extension of gas to Esquimalt, the board feeling that with the advent of the gas properties value would increase. A committee was formed to look after entertainment for the coming season and Esquimalt is assured that through the energetic efforts of the committee some good entertainments will be arranged.

A great many important items to be taken up at future meetings in consequence of which the board would like to see an increase of members, especially drive for members is to be made.

West Coast Lightkeeper Is Drowned

S. Warren, Lightkeeper at Entrance Island, near Quatsino Sound, was drowned yesterday afternoon when his trail toboggan capsized in the surf within sight of his family, according to word received here by the Dominion Government marine department. The unfortunate man was rowing out to a boat which had brought mail for the lighthouse when the tragedy occurred. His small craft struck a rock and overturned, throwing him out into the angry sea. He sank immediately and all efforts to save him were unavailing. The body was recovered sometime later through the combined efforts of the mail carrier and members of the lightkeeper's family.

NEW PAVING BEING LAID ON DOUGLAS

The west side of Douglas Street, between Pandora Avenue, will be paved by Saturday evening, it was stated to-day by F. M. Preston, City Engineer.

City gangs started this morning at daylight to remove the wooden block surfacing, as soon as truck crews of the B.C.E.R. Company had completed their work on the westerly set of rails. The work will be pushed by the city continuously through daylight hours, until completed.

The easterly portion of the street will follow, as soon as track work on that side has been completed, and the newly laid westerly surface is ready for traffic. The city's share of the work consists of the removal of the wooden blocks, and the resurfacing of the street with asphalt. The work is being done from revenue.

In former years councils have set aside up to $20,000 a year from revenue for street improvement. This year no fixed sum was mentioned and about $5,000 has been authorized to date.

FINES IMPOSED UNDER GAME ACT

Convicted on a charge of shooting migratory birds, Noel Robinson was fined $50 in Provincial Police Court yesterday afternoon. The charge was laid by Game Warden Ritchie of Sidney, who testified for the Prosecution.

Two other cases for infractions of the Game Act were before the court, one resulting in a conviction and the other being dismissed. Gordon Eastwood was fined $10 for carrying a loaded gun in his automobile. The court dismissed a charge against J. A. Green of hunting between sunset and sunrise. NO PROGRESS ON PLANS MADE

Saanich Trustees Defer Study of Building Plans to Tuesday

Examination of revised plans for additions to Tillicum and Cloverdale schools, and an auditorium at Tolmie High School, was last night deferred by the Saanich School Board until next Tuesday evening, after Trustees James had warned the board: "You are going too far, these plans are too extensive, you are risking the public support we need."

Chairman F. V. Hobbs objected to publicity given the building proposals of the board, and stated that while the architects had been asked for provision of plans the board had not been actuated by a desire to reduce the cost, as reported, but had in view provision of the most suitable buildings. Trustee James said the public was generally aware of the large programme involved. He pointed to the great congestion in the schools of urban Saanich, and unsuccessfully appealed for immediate study of the revised plans.

Rubert Savage, architect, reminded the board of instructions given for speedy action on the addition of Tillicum School, in order that firm bids on completion of two or three rooms might be secured. He pointed to the effect of one week's delay, but the board decided unanimously against further progress until a special meeting had been called.

CAFE PLANNED

Details necessary for operation of a restaurant at Tolmie High School will be purchased. The board was informed by Trustee James that the cost will be about $50, and firms will be invited to submit bids for the equipment.

The High School restaurant is expected to earn an immediate gross revenue of $5 or $7 daily, increasing rapidly in the coming year, and the board will advertise for applicants for the catering privilege.

POTATO MEN ASK ACTION

Strict Enforcement of Marketing Act Urged on Provincial Cabinet

A delegation of mainland potato growers were heard by the Provincial Cabinet again this morning, after representations begun yesterday, urging a strict enforcement of the Marketing Act. Allegations were made that certain Chinese growers had not conformed to the regulations and were resisting the operation of the plan.

The delegation was composed of Col. A. W. McLean, chairman of the potato committee; A. Brechley and A. Mac-Donald, representing wholesale dealers in Vancouver; Mr. McDowell, for the grocery section of the retail merchants; A. H. Mercer, on behalf of the Chilliwack Board of Trade; C. W. Buckle, president of the B.C. Certified Seed Potato Growers' Association; S. H. Ford of Pitt Meadows; and Alex. Davis of Ladner. The delegation is asking that the law be enforced.

BRANCH RAILWAY SERVICE

Winnipeg, Oct. 23.—The branch line from Cranberry to the Sheritt-Gordon mine at Cold Lake will be taken over by the Canadian National Railways at the end of the month. It was announced yesterday. It is expected there will be a tri-weekly passenger service to and from The Pas, and a daily freight service.

Nature's Specifics for Coughs and Colds

Nature has provided specifics for many of the ills to which man is subject. Perhaps there is no better example than the treatment of coughs, colds and kindred ailments.

LINSEED or flaxseed is what the doctors call a demulcent. In other words its value from a medicinal point of view is that it soothes and allays irritations and abrasions.

TURPENTINE is antiseptic, stimulating and sedative to the local nerves. Almost everybody knows the value of turpentine, as a treatment for bronchial affections.

The combination of linseed and turpentine with some other equally valuable ingredients have made Dr. Chase's "Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine" the most effective and most popular treatment for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, etc.

YOUNG PEOPLE TO HOLD RALLY

Fifty Mainland Members of A.Y.P.A. to Visit City Next Week-end

At the rally of the Anglican Young People's Association, to be held in the Memorial Hall next Saturday, some 100 members of the five local branches will be hosts to between forty-five and fifty visiting members from Vancouver and New Westminster. The mainlanders, who will arrive on the Saturday afternoon boat, will have an opportunity of visiting the new Cathedral under the guidance of Ven. Archdeacon Laycock, Dean Quainton, Rev. F. A. Ramsay and A. E. Merris, who will meet the visitors on the new Cathedral steps at 4.15 o'clock, when a short address of welcome will be given by the Dean.

Under the chairmanship of Jack Aylwin, convenor of the entertainment committee of the A.Y.P.A., local council, a good two-day programme has been arranged which is in accord with the principles of this Dominion-wide organization.

The programme is as follows:
SATURDAY
4 p.m.—Visit new Cathedral.
6.30 p.m.—Supper, followed by conference on A.Y.P.A. at Memorial Hall.
9.15 to 11 a.m.—Dance in Memorial Hall gymnasium.

SUNDAY
8 a.m.—Corporate Communion at new Cathedral.
9 a.m.—Breakfast at Memorial Hall.
11 a.m.—Attend service at new Cathedral.
2.15 p.m.—Drive around city for visiting members.
7.15 p.m.—Attend evening service at St. John's Church.

At the supper on Saturday, Bishop Schofield, the patron of the local A.Y.P.A., and Archdeacon Laycock have been invited to speak. As this, coupled with the conference, immediately following the supper, is the main event of the two-day programme, an interesting evening is anticipated.

This is the first time that an affair of this nature has been held here and it is felt that mutual benefit will be obtained by both the mainland delegates and their Victoria fellow-members through an interchange of ideas and a discussion of A.Y.P.A. generally. While this conference is taking place here, the annual Dominion Conference will be held at St. Catharines, Ontario at the same time.

The Bishop of Columbia, will deliver the sermon at the 11 o'clock service in the new Cathedral, and at the evening service to be held in St. John's Church a sermon of special interest to young people will be given by Rev. Canon F. A. P. Chadwick.

LEGION DANCE IS ATTENDED BY OVER 400

Dave Sheret, chairman of the ways and means committee of the Britannia branch, acted as master of ceremonies. Refreshments were served by members of the auxiliaries.

Following was the committee in charge: Britannia branch, Mesdames Sheret, Bloomfield, Brown, Pearson, Hall, Dempster, Blair and Hood; Pro Patria branch, Mesdames Drury, South and Holt; Prince Edward branch, Langford, Mesdames Mackie Pennington, Cooney, Meredith-Jones and Walker.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

Wheat Crash Wipes Out Thousands Of Holders

Winnipeg, Oct. 24.—Liquidation on the stock market in New York finally spread to grain and sent wheat values crashing to-day.

In a straight-away break of around 10 cents a bushel, the market wiped out thousands of speculators throughout the country who had bought wheat at higher prices on the belief that the Canadian wheat pools were going to be able to put wheat up to 2.25 a bushel.

Enormous losses were taken to-day by holders who had bought their wheat 20 to 40 cents a bushel higher.

To-day's break in wheat to new lows on the move, turned around in Chicago, who had been going heavily short of the market while the public was loading up for the expected "big bull move."

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited) Winnipeg, Oct. 24.—Wheat opened fairly steady and about half cent higher, but the market was immediately under heavy selling pressure, which finally became a panic and prices broke from 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents under last night's close before the decline was checked. The May future being the weakest. From the extreme break there was a rally of 8 cents and while there was some buying for seaboard account and considerable short covering the reaction was only natural.

The majority of the pit crowd believing that the last five cent break was not warranted. The offerings were tremendous during the first half of the day, millions of bushels being poured into the pit, a large part of which came from New York and Chicago and was credited to Cuyton selling out his grain holdings.

Export business was practically nil overnight. With the weakness in the futures it was hard to interest anyone in cash wheat. One of the local shippers reported a good business on the break, but direct exporters were not trying to do anything. Offerings of all grades were heavy and the local spreads were unchanged from yesterday.

Millers were doing nothing. Broom-hall reports foreign demand for wheat and flour as slow, with Argentine pressure on wheat. Following to-day's drastic liquidation, confidence of holders has been pretty well shaken, and while there may be some small reaction, it is not likely that sharp recovery will take place at present at least.

Coarse grains.—These markets were all sharply lower during the first part of the day. The extreme weakness in wheat bringing about a certain amount of liquidation. However, the market recovered most of the early loss.

There was further business in oats to eastern Canada and the demand appears to be quite good. There is also good demand in the west for high-grade oats for seed and milling purposes, and offerings on the local market are light. There was no business in barley or rye.

Flax.—This market reflected the general weakness. The trade light and features.

SMOKING MIXTURE

The Innocent Cheat

By Ruth Dewey Groves
AUTHOR OF "RICH GIRL—POOR GIRL," ETC.

"Am I?" Brent mocked her. "Possibly, but not too insane to have put you in the Nellin girl's place—to have won an immense fortune for you—and to have you just where I want you."

Helen was now completely confused, quite unable to follow him. He said that she would not know where to begin to ask the questions that were seething in her mind and decided to tell her everything of her story from the start.

Helen listened helplessly. It was so appalling, so shocking, to hear the dead parents she had revered revealed as crooks; to learn that Brent himself was even worse than she had thought him—she could do nothing but stare glassily at him while her world fell about her head.

He told her the whole truth—how he had stumbled upon the facts of the Cunningham case—how he had conceived the idea of imposing her upon the aged man as his granddaughter—and what it meant to him.

"And now you know why you can't refuse to marry me," he ended.

Helen's lips opened stiffly—her words came with great difficulty. "But you... you are the criminal," she cried hoarsely.

Brent's tenseness slackened, his tigerishness left him, and he became on the instant his old suave, unperturbed self. He had been ferocious in his attack, brutal, delighting in it. But he knew that his moves must not be cautious, more carefully planned.

"Unfortunately, for you," he said quietly, "you cannot prove my innocence."

CHAPTER XLIII

"Bob will believe me!" Helen declared her faith in her lover's trust without a moment's hesitation.

Surprisingly Brent nodded his head in agreement. "Won't you sit down now?" he said. "I've something more to say to you." He glanced at his watch. "Or perhaps you'd better send your friend Shallimar off to the station before we go on with this."

Helen sank into a chair. "She's in the breakfast-room," she said weakly. "Tell her I'd like her to take a later train; I can't see her off now."

Brent left to do her bidding, but was quickly back. He noted, as soon as he entered the room, a change in Helen. Given a few moments to think she had decided he was lying to her, tricking her.

How simple it was, of course. She felt like laughing, only somehow there was, strangely, inexplicably an odor of truth about it all. She fought against it.

"I hated to tell you this," Brent began, deceived by her manner into ham's daughter—and if it is true I shall renounce the fortune myself!"

"Oh, you will!" Brent answered. "Well, my noble young lady, do that trifling little thing and you'll have plenty of time to repent behind the bars."

"But you can't prove that I—"

"Are you really so dense that you fail to see your position itself will prove it for me?" Brent cut in. "Confession on my part will throw the burden of defence on you; and what will you fight with? You haven't a penny of your own. And you need money, and friends. Public opinion, public sympathy, will be against you from the start—taking in a dying old man—giving him Judas kisses—lying to him, just waiting for him to—"

"Oh, no, no," Helen cried.

"A pretty picture, no?" Brent pressed on. "Daughter of once famous crook comes into her own as queen of impostors. Blindly infatuated young law student, loyal, turning his back upon his career for the sake of a bewitching face. Not so bad, eh? I'll make it dramatic enough, don't worry."

Helen bowed her face in her hands and Brent observed her shaking young body without pity.

"On the other hand," he said at last, "you can have everything. And love is not a lasting thing. Helen, don't be hoodwinked by that notion. It's been exploded too many times. Astonishing that anyone continues to believe in it. You've just let Eileen, even if it takes time. But you never could forget the world wouldn't let you—that you had ruined his life, robbed him of the chance to look every man in the face—that seems to be the absurd ambition of any number of brainless idiots," he added dryly.

"I... I don't have to marry him," Helen gulped. "I can give the money back to Mr. Cunningham's lawyer and go away somewhere."

"Yes, if the police will let you," Brent agreed.

"He'll tell, whether I marry Bob or not? You wouldn't let me restore the money and—"

"Certainly not," Brent returned firmly. "You will either marry me or face exposure. And I warn you, Helen, I won't stand for any nonsense. You'll come through all the way, or you'll take the rap—underworld jargon," he smiled with mock apology.

Helen gulped. You've led a sheltered life, my dear, you know nothing whatsoever of the hell that awaits you if you let yourself in for a stretch up the river. Better give it a lot of thought before you decide."

"There isn't anything to decide," Helen said brokenly. "I cannot marry you."

For a moment Brent said nothing. Then: "You may feel differently about it when you've had time to think it over. In the meantime you might go into social service and find out at first hand what happens to jailbirds. And if you can arrange it—go take a look at the poor devils in prison. Don't settle your fate blindly, without knowing what you're doing. You'll never be able to undo it. You'll be in the morgue in no time at all after they let you go with your prison pallor and your prison-marked soul. A girl like you God, you'd become a dog fiend!"

Helen shrank down into her chair. The back of her hand flew to her mouth to stifle a scream.

"I'll be safely out of it. You'll be left to stand the gauntlet alone. Your exposure will come through information that I shall supply indirectly to the authorities. I'll give the whole thing to the newspapers at the same time. Let your boy friend stand by you then. Suppose you went free—there'd always be a doubt in the public mind about your innocence. What would that mean to Eileen?"

Helen saw at once that it would be irreparable injury to his career, but only the deepening pain in her eyes answered Brent. It was enough.

"If he believed you, and there's a good chance that he won't," Helen had one lucid thought.

"He will believe me," she said, "because he'll know that I wouldn't have dared to think of marrying him if this were true and you held me in your power."

Brent regarded her admiringly. "Rather clever," he praised. "But not weighty enough. He's apt to imagine you thought you could handle me."

"Oh, you are fiendish!"

"Merely determined, my dear, that no upstart like Eileen is going to spoil my plans now."

"Then you think I will consent to go on with this deception?" asked this imposture."

Helen cried, amazed that he should know her so little he could believe such a thing possible.

"For the sake of millions, and your liberty, yes," Brent admitted.

"It's unthinkable!" Helen stormed. "You will have to prove what you have said—that I am not Helen Cunningham's daughter."

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Busy Bee

Copyright, 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

By HOWARD R. GARIS

When Uncle Wiggily hopped out of his hollow stump bungalow one morning he was almost struck on the tip of his pink, twinkling nose by a big bumble bee who was zooming through the air like an aeroplane.

"Hi!" cried the rabbit gentleman jumping to one side.

"Hi!" buzzed the bee.

"Wait a minute," cried Uncle Wiggily.

"I'm too busy—haven't time!" buzzed the bee, and away he flew over the field.

"Maybe something has happened over in that field," said Uncle Wiggily to himself. "There may be a ball game among the ants or they may be playing football. It will be something to amuse me and I may get an adventure out of it."

So Mr. Longears hopped as fast as he could after the busy bee, keeping the large, yellow chap in sight as he winked his way over the field. Uncle Wiggily was a fast hopper, but he had to make his legs go like a pair of roller skates, and he was almost out of breath as he caught up to the bee, who had alighted on one of the last few flowers remaining, now that summer had gone and fall had come.

"I... I don't have to marry him," Helen gulped. "I can give the money back to Mr. Cunningham's lawyer and go away somewhere."

"Yes, if the police will let you," Brent agreed.

"He'll tell, whether I marry Bob or not? You wouldn't let me restore the money and—"

Shall a Man Try to Hold His Quittier Wife?—Ought A Man's Insurance Go to His Mother or His Family?—Separation Best for Too-early Married

DEAR MISS DIX—I have been married for about a year and a half to a girl with whom I fell in love shortly after finishing college. I had not worked long and my salary was only $2,000 a year, but I believed I had a promising future. My sweetheart was not accustomed to luxuries, so we decided that we could stick it out together until I earned better pay. Now she is very dissatisfied and is constantly throwing up to me my inability to make more money and wonders why she can't have a maid, a new car and such things, all of which I think she deserves, but which I will not be able to give her for at least two years more.

It makes my heart sore to realize that my income is inadequate and her constant reference to it makes us both miserable. She suggests divorce as a remedy for the situation. For her sake what should be done?

BAFFLED.

Answer:

If you would give her the divorce she wants, it would be a punishment that would fit her crime, because she would find out that her greed had been her undoing and that in trying to get a richer husband she was like the dog in the old fable who lost even the meal ticket that he had by trying to grab at a bigger one.

Undoubtedly, your wife's conceit is such that she thinks that if she were rid of you she would be besieged by millionaires and be able to at once marry some man who would install her in a palace and give her a fleet of motorcars and an unlimited number of clothes. But when she is divorced, the average wives are seldom realized. The supply of Croesuses is strictly limited and they are not going around hunting up predatory divorcees. On the contrary, their one aim and object in life is to escape the gold-diggers and matrimony.

Of course, it is a consoling thought to a woman that if she wasn't burdened with her husband she could marry any man she chose, and I hate to shake her very illusion, but it is a cold, hard fact that it takes a lot more beauty and charm and technique and sex appeal than the average wife possesses to enable her to go out and make a hit with the men. So my earnest advice to the ladies who have good, kind, generous husbands, who make them a comfortable living, is to stay married.

You have my earnest sympathy, you poor, baffled man who can't understand why the castle of dreams has come tumbling down about your ears, nor why the woman who was so eager to marry you and live with you on a small income, how is so discontented with it. There is no human being in all the world whom I am sorer for than the man who is unlucky enough to be married to a woman who is a poor sport, and who instead of standing by him and fighting with him shoulder to shoulder in the battle of life, turns quitter.

Such a wife takes the heart out of a man. She breaks down his morale. She discourages him so completely that he has to call up his last ounce of determination and courage to carry on and keep on struggling until he wins through to victory in spite of her.

I often wonder if these peevish, discontented, whining women who are always reproaching their husbands with not making more money and complaining because they have not all the things that rich women have, realize how cruel they are and how they stab their husbands to the very soul. And I wonder still oftener at the patience and forbearance of the men who are working themselves to death to supply the demands of the wives who continually cry more, more, more.

And I am very sure that these grasping wives do not know that they are killing the goose that lays the golden egg when they twist their husbands with not being able to get on and throw in their teeth the success of other men. For, if they did, they would know that when you destroy a man's faith in his ability to succeed you doom him to failure, and that when you discourage him you slow down his efforts. Many a man achieves marvels just because he had to justify his wife's belief in him, but no man ever did anything for a wife who had no faith in him.

The real modern romance is not the sticky, silly love story of boys and girls. It is the story of a poor young couple who marry on a shoestring and who work up together, the wife encouraging, inspiring, believing in her husband, cheering him on, bolstering him up when his own strength falters. I was reading the biography of such a man the other day and in it, in speaking of the days when they were desperately poor and fighting for a toehold on the ladder of success and when the wife's lot was full of hardships and sacrifices, she said: "But we were just as happy then and just as rich as we are now when we have millions." No wonder that man succeeded.

In your case, Baffled, I should certainly let my whining wife have a divorce if she wanted it. A wife who won't stand by a man and make the fight with him is small loss.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—What arguments would you use to persuade your husband to have his insurance policy changed, naming his wife instead of his mother? This man is a good husband and father and he and his wife are very devoted to each other. They have two little children. Five years before the man was married he took out an insurance policy, naming his mother as beneficiary, and he refuses to change it because if he should die his mother would have no other means of support. The wife is so fond of her husband that she would make no point of this, but her family nag her incessantly about it and keep the matter always stirred up. What should the wife do?

MRS. NEIGHBOR.

Answer:

I think the wife should tell her family that it is none of their business and that they are making trouble by interfering in her domestic affairs.

And I think under the circumstances that the husband is right not to change his insurance policy. The mother is old and this little money is all the protection she has against want should her son die, whereas the wife is young and able to support herself and her children. I think the man should so arrange it that after his mother's death the money would come to his children, but that as long as she lives she should have the use of it.

A young woman can get work, but an old woman is helpless. There is nothing that she can do to support herself, nobody wants her and there is nothing left for her but the poorhouse unless she has a little money. And so it is easy to understand why any man who is a good son and a good husband would try to save his mother from the horror of a dependent old age.

Of course, there is every chance that the man will not die, that he will live long to support his family, and that he will outlive his mother, so all of this family wrangle and this stirring up of hard feelings is for nothing.

But its effects will survive and it will estrange the husband and wife if they do not put an end to it.

So if the wife is wise and really loves her husband and wants him to love her, she will tell him that she understands why he does not change his insurance policy, and that she feels that he is right, and that she hopes that if she ever has a son that he will be as loyal to her as he is to his mother.

And she will call off the trouble-makers in her own family.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—My husband and I married when we had just barely passed our sixteenth birthdays. We have been married a year and a half now. We began quarreling on our wedding day and we have been quarreling ever since and neither one of us wants to be married any longer. Our love has turned to hate and we are driving each other crazy. But here is my problem: Three months ago my older sister left her husband and it has just about broken my mother's heart. Now shall I make her go through all that again, or shall I waste my youth and continue to live in misery? We have no children.

UNDECIDED.

Answer:

You are young and your mother is old, and so you are the one whose happiness is to be considered first in this matter. Anyway, she can take no great comfort in your marriage if you and your husband are living a cat and dog life together.

But instead of getting a divorce, why don't you and your boy husband just separate for two or three years and wait until you grow up before you decide what to do? He may grow up into the sort of a man that you would like to be married to and you may develop into the sort of a woman who would fascinate him. Who knows?

CHILDREN'S SIGHT CONSERVED

Sight-saving Class At School Proves Successful, Experts Declare

By MRS. A. PEARCE

Recognizing the paramount necessity of conserving the human resources of the Dominion from both the humanitarian and economic standpoint, and that "the light of the body is the eye," the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, has made an exhaustive study of the causes of blindness, and its possible prevention.

As a result of this search the conclusion supported by outstanding authorities, has been arrived at that 50 per cent of all blindness is preventable.

The prevention service thereupon initiated by the institute, affects all phases of life in the community, looking to the protection of infants' eyes at birth, the eyes of children under school age, of children in schools, of adults in the prime of life, and of the aged.

Co-operating with the Canadian Council on Child Welfare, efforts have been successfully made to establish provincial statutes in Canada, providing for treatment of all infants' eyes at birth.

Through the efforts of the institute, with the help of nursing organizations, of women's organizations and clubs, parents are being made to realize that in the elimination of dangerous toys, lies the chief protection of their children against accidents resulting from play.

EXPERT RETAINED

But the most prolific medium for the diffusion of preventive instruction lies in the Normal and special summer schools for teachers, and the institute has engaged the services of Miss McLellan, a graduate of Oxford and Columbia Universities, highly qualified in social service and sight-saving work, who will visit consecutively, the sixteen Normal Schools of Canada, demonstrating to those approximately 7,000 student-teachers in training, the methods of detection of defective vision in the schoolroom, the procedure in referring cases for treatment and correction, and the assistance to be rendered such cases in the shape of special sight-saving equipment, in rural and other school rooms where sight-saving classes are not likely to be established, owing to the lack of a sufficient number of pupils conveniently located in any one district.

This method of personal instruction is being supplemented by the dissemination of authoritative literature on the subject.

In close collaboration with the provincial health departments, with the public health nurses, school boards and their medical officers, surveys comprising thousands of school-pupils during the past year, have disclosed numbers of cases of seriously defective vision, that were at once reported for treatment.

USE SPECIAL EQUIPMENT

In determining the vision of children, there will always be found some with such defective sight that neither remedial glasses nor treatment will enable the child to use the school equipment provided for pupils of normal sight.

In the education of this group, which is estimated to include about one in every five hundred—much can be accomplished by the use of special books and apparatus.

This of necessity involves the gathering of these children into classes, under the guidance and instruction of specially trained teachers.

It would be not only undesirable but positively prejudicial, were these children placed in school for the blind. Their education is in no wise based upon the same principles, nor are their needs anything like the same. It is precisely to fill this gap that the sight-saving class has been devised, and through the close co-operation of the institute with local school boards, such classes are being organized throughout the cities of Canada, as rapidly as circumstances will permit, Vancouver being the first city in Western Canada to respond to this great need.

Wherever desired, in localities where there is no experienced sight-saving teacher, the National Institute sends one of its own highly trained representatives, either wholly at its own expense, or sharing the cost with the local school board.

This institute instructor organizes, and starts the class, the local teacher selected, serving as active observer, and soon thereafter as possible is left in complete control and charge of the class, whose activities just as those of any other class in the school, come under the direct financial control and supervision of the principal and school board.

SPECIAL CLASS HELD

Such a sight-saving class under the guidance of Miss Patricia Morrison has been for the past two and a half years, in full operation at the General Gordon School in Vancouver.

The children of all of the school classes are subject to frequent eye examinations. When defective sight is reported by the school nurse or the medical officer, the parents are at once appraised and advised to call in an eye specialist.

If the circumstances of the parent do not permit, means are provided for the child to see a specialist.

Then follows a consultation between the head nurse, the head doctor of the school and the eye specialist, as to the advisability of the child being entered into the sight-saving class.

This class is by no means restricted to the pupils of the General Gordon School, nor to any other school district. It serves the entire city, one small boy being required to transfer to three different classes, in order to reach the class. Parents in other instances, have changed their place of residence to be near the school and so lessen the distance for the children.

RAPID RESPONSE

Twenty-five per cent of the twelve pupils comprising the first Vancouver class, were about to be excluded from their regular classes because of visual handicap. The response of these and others of the class, to Miss Morrison's method, was startlingly rapid.

One boy, ten years old on entering the class, without previous tuition of any kind by expert order of his own doctor, who had thought this the best way to preserve his sight—passed brilliantly from the first grade through grade 5B, in fourteen months of actual tuition, a course ordinarily taking even for the child of normal vision, a period of five years—and this, without the least strain on his sight.

Another lad of twelve, although fitted with glasses, could not attend the regular classes, because unable to decipher or even see the print of the ordinary class book. He was at once able to read with comparative ease, the enlarged print in the sight-saving class.

Still another lad who had remained for three years in the same grade, was promoted in a little less than the regular yearly period, passing the same test as the normally sighted children—an absolute requirement for all the pupils of Miss Morrison's class.

These children, taken out of themselves, trained in spite of their handicap, to compete on the same terms with their fellow pupils of normal sight—obliged to pass the same tests and examinations—ranked through their report rating with the grade and class to which, their work entitles them—thus lose all sense of inferiority complex, that might otherwise have held them permanently down.

No longer are they faced with the dread of dropping out of school, because of inability to cope with their tasks—to join a little later, that vast army of "misfits" unable to concentrate, nervous, irritable, their efficiency impaired to the lowest ebb of earning capacity.

ATTEND OTHER CLASSES

The tuition of Miss Morrison's pupils is not entirely confined to her class room. They have certain short periods with the regular classes under other teachers where they imbibe the lesson through hearing alone. After ten or twenty minutes of such audition they go back, Miss Morrison supplementing the lesson they have just had, through blackboard work, through reading and questioning.

Every detail of the sight-saving schoolroom is planned to increase visibility, and reduce to a minimum, all eye strain.

Every thing is done to protect the eye from glare and cross shadows; the color of the walls—a soft buff—the dark finish of the woodwork and of the furniture, the specially constructed window blinds—covering separately the top or bottom of the window as desired, all are designed to shut out glare—the glare that tends to injure vision and disturb the whole nervous system; that causes discomfort and fatigue, reducing the efficiency of the student far below par. When artificial light is used, semi-indirect lighting, produced by inverted bowls over 14-in. dropped from the ceiling is evenly diffused without the strong shadows and low surface brightness that increase eye strain and result in functional disorder of the eye.

The blackboards whose surfaces are kept as dull as possible, are carefully placed in respect to light, being never located in the same wall as the windows. The blackboards are printed thereon in huge characters, with special white chalk, which has been found to possess the greatest visibility and to create the least amount of glare that might find its way into the eyes of the children, or clouding their eye glasses, interfere with their vision. This white chalk is occasionally varied with yellow, to provide a change of color, the yellow chalk being practically as dustless.

Maps are specially enlarged—and placed in a convenient corner of the room to which the children have ready access, studying them at close hand at will.

EFFICIENT TEACHER

The General Gordon School is particularly fortunate in the retention of Miss Morrison, who not only ranks to-day in the forefront of this highly specialized branch of education—but is an artist of exceptional achievement. And her schoolroom reflects a everywhere the evidences of her artistic taste, being not only technically correct in its particular requirements, but in its aesthetic setting, imparts a cultural background to her pupils developing their sense of beauty and form.

Hand-painted pictures adorn the tops of the blackboards; pictures on the walls are boldly limbed by Indian ink, to enable the children to see and study and appreciate their outlines.

The pendulum of the great-figured clock in the corner, is entirely covered with a fanciful picture, so that its incessant swinging may not prove tiresome to the sight.

The text books greatly enlarged in size, are beautifully illustrated and printed by Miss Morrison, on dull buff paper.

An added original feature of these text books is the printing in large, red characters at frequent intervals of the word "rest." When the pupil reaches this point, he is required either to close his eyes, or to direct his vision upon some far object, or he may leave the room altogether, and relax in the rest room.

The little individual desks have adjustable tops that can be raised to any height, as near as necessary to the eyes of the child.

TEACH TYPEWRITING

Touch typing at which the pupils become astonishingly proficient at an early age, is a part of the curriculum, as also the complete work of six full grades; for the pupils range in age from six to fifteen years.

Altogether, the individual attention given to these children, the hygienic instruction, not only to the care of their eyes, a habit of care that they will carry with them long after they will have left school—but even diet as it reflects upon the eye condition—has naturally a strong appeal to their parents, who evince their interest and appreciation in frequent visits to the schoolroom, where they find a warm welcome.

Eye specialists are co-operating with equal interest, keeping in close touch with school authorities through reports on the progress of their little pupils, regularly as "misfits."

Even those who first came to scoff—are now among the staunchest advocates of this method combining understanding with human warmth and not only the sight of the young generation is conserved and improved—but educating them side by side, shoulder to shoulder with their fellow pupils who are being equipped to cope with life's after problems and life's emergencies, all their faculties trained and developed to the uttermost.

ATTEND OTHER CLASSES

The tuition of Miss Morrison's pupils is not entirely confined to her class room. They have certain short periods with the regular classes under other teachers where they imbibe the lesson through hearing alone. After ten or twenty minutes of such audition they go back, Miss Morrison supplementing the lesson they have just had, through blackboard work, through reading and questioning.

Every detail of the sight-saving schoolroom is planned to increase visibility, and reduce to a minimum, all eye strain.

Every thing is done to protect the eye from glare and cross shadows; the color of the walls—a soft buff—the dark finish of the woodwork and of the furniture, the specially constructed window blinds—covering separately the top or bottom of the window as desired, all are designed to shut out glare—the glare that tends to injure vision and disturb the whole nervous system; that causes discomfort and fatigue, reducing the efficiency of the student far below par. When artificial light is used, semi-indirect lighting, produced by inverted bowls over 14-in. dropped from the ceiling is evenly diffused without the strong shadows and low surface brightness that increase eye strain and result in functional disorder of the eye.

The blackboards whose surfaces are kept as dull as possible, are carefully placed in respect to light, being never located in the same wall as the windows. The blackboards are printed thereon in huge characters, with special white chalk, which has been found to possess the greatest visibility and to create the least amount of glare that might find its way into the eyes of the children, or clouding their eye glasses, interfere with their vision. This white chalk is occasionally varied with yellow, to provide a change of color, the yellow chalk being practically as dustless.

Maps are specially enlarged—and placed in a convenient corner of the room to which the children have ready access, studying them at close hand at will.

EFFICIENT TEACHER

The General Gordon School is particularly fortunate in the retention of Miss Morrison, who not only ranks to-day in the forefront of this highly specialized branch of education—but is an artist of exceptional achievement. And her schoolroom reflects a everywhere the evidences of her artistic taste, being not only technically correct in its particular requirements, but in its aesthetic setting, imparts a cultural background to her pupils developing their sense of beauty and form.

Hand-painted pictures adorn the tops of the blackboards; pictures on the walls are boldly limbed by Indian ink, to enable the children to see and study and appreciate their outlines.

The pendulum of the great-figured clock in the corner, is entirely covered with a fanciful picture, so that its incessant swinging may not prove tiresome to the sight.

The text books greatly enlarged in size, are beautifully illustrated and printed by Miss Morrison, on dull buff paper.

An added original feature of these text books is the printing in large, red characters at frequent intervals of the word "rest." When the pupil reaches this point, he is required either to close his eyes, or to direct his vision upon some far object, or he may leave the room altogether, and relax in the rest room.

The little individual desks have adjustable tops that can be raised to any height, as near as necessary to the eyes of the child.
